PRICE SEVEN CENTS

Call Flak Heaviest Of 3 Wars

ABOARD Carrier Oriskany, Gulf of Tonkin (AP)—North Viet Nam is throwing up a flak barrage along its coastline heavier than any anti-aircraft barrier during World War II or the Korean War, experienced pilots on this attack carrier believe.

They say the barrage has been intensified in recent weeks and add that it is beginning to prove "very effective."

The United States has reported the loss of 329 planes over North Viet Nam and a record of seven in one day was shot down last Sunday.

Virtual Flak Curtain

"North Viet Nam has virtually erected a flak curtain right along its coastline," said one of the Oriskany's pilots, Lt. John McDonald of Hendersonville, N.C. "Nowadays there are not many points that are not heavily defended. Everywhere you go you see those great big black soot balls of flak."

McDonald and the other pilots fly 1,000-mile-an-hour F4 Phantom jets over North Viet Nam from the 40,000-ton Oriskany. They concentrate mostly on targets in the Haiphong area. They say there is usually no way to get past the flak barrage other than to "gun up" and go right through it.

"The flak starts these days before you hit the beach," Lt. (j.g.) Richard A. Bengtson of Salina, Kan., said.

"Their radar has us spotted from the time we leave the ship. We try to fly over the flak as much as we can, but usually this is not possible. You also run the risk of meeting missiles if you get up too high."

Bengtson said the missiles, however, are fairly easy to get away from.

"As soon as we see them we start taking evasive action," he added. "You often can see them zooming off from their launchers, leaving a trail of smoke behind them."

Bigger Threat Than Missiles

Most of the Oriskany's pilots agree that flak is a greater threat than the missiles.

Other pilots, who saw flak barrages in World War II and the Korean War, said the flak over North Viet Nam now is worse than anything in those wars. These senior pilots—those declined to be named—described it as "probably the most intensive anti-aircraft fire ever thrown up."

McDonald believes the manually operated North Vietnamese guns are more effective than those controlled by radar.

"They seem to be having some trouble with their radar guns," he added. "It's those (Continued on Page 12, Col. 7)"

Post 150 Seeks State Crown in Big Game Today

Kingston Post 150, a finalist in the State American Legion Baseball tournament for the first time since 1934, was scheduled to play Adrean Post 625 of Utica at 2 this afternoon at Doubleday Field in Cooperstown with the state championship on the line.

The local team disposed of Hastings, 5-1, in Tuesday's semifinal contest at the Hudson River State Hospital Field in Poughkeepsie. Utica advanced by stopping highly touted Buffalo, 9-1, at Geneva.

Brian Bach, the top pitcher in the area and the "Player of the Year" in the DUSO League, was expected to get the starting nod from manager Tommy Maines. Bach started and won three tourney contests and hurled splendid relief ball in the other.

Elected to Succeed Relyea As Hurley Town GOP Chief

An active worker in both town and county politics for the last 10 years, Sam S. Pepper of Hurley, has been elected chairman of the Town of Hurley Republican Committee.

Pepper succeeds Charles Relyea, present chairman of the county board of supervisors, as the town's GOP leader.

Relyea attended a meeting of the committee, which was called at his request, and explained that due to his increased and pressing commitments both to the Town and Ulster County, that he felt he must resign as town chairman.

The retiring GOP leader in the town requested that the committee select someone to fulfill this position. Relyea was highly praised by the committee for "his fine services and dedication to the town and the Republican party." His resignation was accepted with regret by the committee.

After considerable discussion, the committee elected Pepper as the town's new GOP leader in the township.

Pepper served in the U.S. Marine Corps in both World War II and the Korean Conflict and was discharged after the Korean Conflict as a first lieutenant.

Pepper has served on many boards in the Kingston area such as the Rotary Club, Chamber of Commerce, Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and is currently a member of the Board of Education, Kingston City Schools Consolidated, and serves as chairman of some of the key committees of the Board.

The new GOP chairman resides on Orchard Street, Hurley with his wife the former Mary Hamrick of Bristol, Tenn., and their three children: Julia, Mary Frances and Sam S. Pepper Jr.

2 Guards Stabbed, 7 Hurt

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP)—Inmates rioted outside a dispensary at the Massachusetts State Prison in a violent attempt to steal drugs Friday night, injuring nine guards.

Two guards were stabbed and seven others beaten as the inmates pushed their way into the "pill" room, yelling, thrashing and gobbling down as many pills as they could at one time.

is on "Cloud Nine"

A riot squad of 22 state police and guards stormed into the dispensary and quickly put down the riot.

State Police Cpl. James Dunne, who led the squad equipped with 12 gauge shotguns, gas masks and crash helmets, said about 18 of the inmates were reeling "on cloud nine" when he arrived.

Medications, which prison officials said are dispensed once daily in packets, are kept in a locked room and handed out through a window.

Dunne said about 70 inmates were lined up for their assigned medication when one unidentified prisoner insisted on having a second packet, overturned a table at the head of the line, and threatened a guard outside the room with half of a barber's shear.

When a guard inside the room attempted to aid the guard outside, the prisoners rushed inside Dunne said.

Some Watch, Leave

The guards told police the inmates began screaming, shouting "yahoo," and seizing pills. "They stuffed down as many as they could at one time," one guard told state police.

Dunne said those prisoners in the line who did not attempt to steal the drugs stood back and watched or went back to their cells. The medication room is in the prison's maximum security section.

One of the guards, Thomas Perry, 45, Raynham, was stabbed in the back and knocked unconscious in the first dash for pills. John J. O'Connor, (Continued on Page 5, Col. 5)

Reds Down 2 More Planes, Peak Weekly Loss of War

Damaged MIGs Scatter; Gives Hanoi 2-3 Years

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Two U.S. warplanes were shot down by Communist ground fire over North Viet Nam Friday, the U.S. military command announced today.

The losses raised to 13 the number of American planes downed this week, the highest weekly toll of the war.

334 Lost Over North

It also boosted to 334 the total number U.S. aircraft reported lost over North Viet Nam since the air war began over the north.

An Air Force release said "two Air Force crews were downed by ground fire." There was no immediate explanation for the reference to crews, but a spokesman said the release obviously meant that two planes were lost.

The communique identified the planes as an F105 Thunderchief and an RF101 Voodoo reconnaissance plane. The crews were listed as missing.

North Viet Nam had claimed that six U.S. aircraft were shot down and "several air pirates captured."

The worst previous toll of American planes for a single week was 11 during the week of July 17-23.

Earlier, it was announced that a flight of U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs tangled with two Communist MIG17s Friday.

Four Minute Air Battle

Air Force and Navy pilots said eight Soviet-built ground-to-air missiles were fired at them, but a spokesman said there was no indication any hit the American planes.

Both of the MIGs and one of the Thunderchiefs were damaged in the four-minute air battle.

The MIGs damaged were credited to Air Force Capt. Norman L. Wells, 33, Unionville, Va., and Capt. Richard E. Steere, 33, Inglewood, Calif.

The MIGs jumped the Thunderchiefs about 45 miles northwest of Hanoi while the American planes were flying cover for a downed pilot, the spokesman said.

First Since July 24

The MIG's broke off the encounter. It was the first time since July 24 that U.S. planes had encountered Communist aircraft.

The flight was one of a number that attacked oil storage facilities and supply lines in the north.

Little Ground Contact

In the ground war, little contact with the enemy was reported.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, returning home from a three-day state visit to the Philippines, told newsmen he thought the North Vietnamese would accept defeat within the next two or three years and "maybe even earlier."

He also reiterated his statement that a partial withdrawal of U.S. forces in Viet Nam might be possible in two years.

"We have made a lot of progress militarily, economically and politically in the last 14 months," he said. "If we can continue this progress I believe we will be strong enough to defend ourselves."

The air action in the north Friday included a strike by Air Force jets on a fuel storage area near Quang Khe, about 20 miles north of Dong Hoi. Pilots reported heavy black smoke and numerous fires.

Navy fighter-bombers pounded fuel storage areas 13 miles northeast of Haiphong, the spokesman said, and pilots reported that one storage tank exploded and two or three others were ruptured. Large secondary fires were reported.

Claim 9 Red Trucks

Air Force pilots also hit trucks on highways in the southern panhandle of North Viet Nam and claimed 9 destroyed and 12 damaged.

In the south, 22 U.S. Marine and Air Force jets pounced on a group of Communists spotted in the open 22 miles southwest of Hue and reported killing 37, the spokesman said.

The North Vietnamese also reported that Maj. James Kasler, one of the top U.S. pilots in the Viet Nam war who was captured Monday, and another pilot had asked for "leniency of the Vietnamese people for their crimes."

Kasler led the first raid on Hanoi fuel dumps June 29, and the other pilot, identified by Hanoi as Capt. Wiley Shattuck, 34, accompanied him.

Other Developments

In other developments:—The U.S. Senate Appropriations Committee called for "immediate consideration" of the use of National Guard or Reserve units in Viet Nam.

Calling the situation a scandal, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said "Men who have been enough pull to get into the Republic of Vietnam."

OCS Lists City Firms For Work

Contracts in the total amount of $1,364,956 were awarded at a special meeting of the Oneterra Board of Education this week for the new high school addition.

Henry H. Swart & Son of Kingston, general contractors, were successful low bidders for the general construction and the total amount of the award, including alternates, was $867,796.

C. B. Strain & Son, Inc. of Poughkeepsie, was the successful bidder for both heating and ventilating and plumbing. The heating and ventilating contract was awarded for $186,220 and the plumbing contract amounted to $119,390.

Thomas O'Leary of Kingston was the successful bidder for the electrical contract and received the award at a price of $191,550.

In addition, the Board of Education appointed William L. Larsen of Stone Ridge as clerk of the works to begin employment Monday, Aug. 15. Larsen has been job superintendent on many construction projects in the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge schools in Kingston, Rondout Valley and Pine Bush.

Construction on the new addition which was approved by voters last March is expected to begin Monday.

Bobbies Push Wide Cop-Killer Search

LONDON (AP)—Arms and tear gas were issued to some of London's 18,000 police today as they hunted for the men who gunned down three unarmed policemen Friday on a West End street.

Only in exceptional cases are arms issued to British police. Police were warned the killers probably would not hesitate to kill again. Investigators were warned not to work alone.

Boy Witnesses Shooting

The victims, gunned down opposite a park where several children were playing, were riding in an unmarked car, used in patrol and undercover work.

A 10-year-old boy who witnessed the shooting told Scotland Yard officials a fat man with a black beard shot at one of the victims, chased him, knocked him to the ground and shot him.

"Then the man with the black beard got into the police car and drove over the man in the road. I ran away because I was frightened. As I ran I heard several more shots," the boy said.

The policemen had stopped their car near Wormwood Scrubbs Prison to question three or four men in a parked auto. Why they wanted to question the men may never be known.

"Only three men know the full story—and they are dead. But they must have had a reason," (Continued on Page 5, Col. 3)

Six Units Will Be at Stadium, Starts 8 P. M.

While many area Drum Corps fans are enjoying the Northeastern Circuit Contest this afternoon, many more will have the opportunity of viewing six championship junior corps tonight at Dietz Stadium, starting at 8 o'clock.

The second annual Pow Wow of Junior Champions will take over the floor of the stadium in a program labeled "a dream competition of junior corps."

The visiting Corps include the 8-time and current Canadian National Champions, the Toronto Optimists; the 10-time American Legion National Champion Garfield Cadets; the 1964 N. Y. State Champion Magnificent (Continued on Page 5, Col. 8)

Gubernatorial Hopefuls 4 Demos Coming To Dinner Here

All four announced Democratic candidates for Governor of New York State will meet face-to-face in Ulster County later this month, marking one of the very rare occasions when the quartet has appeared together at one affair.

Scheduled Aug. 27

What will bring them to this area is a dinner sponsored by the Ulster County Democratic Committee Saturday, Aug. 27, at Elmer's Restaurant, Ruby. The fete will honor the four gubernatorial opponents: Eugene Nickerson, Nassau County executive; Frank O'Connor, president of the City Council of New York; Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the late President of the United States and a former chairman of the Equal Opportunity Commission; and Howard J. Samuels, millionaire industrialist from Upstate.

All four have definitely accepted invitations to attend the dinner, which is scheduled only 10 short days before the Democratic hopefuls face each other in the balloting at the Democratic Convention.

Others Will Attend

Other prominent Democrats expected to attend the dinner, one of the most auspicious ever held in this area, are: Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, who is seeking re-election this fall; State Senatorial candidate Horace Graham, a former Poughkeepsie mayor; Assembly candidate George Majestic; and County Clerk candidate Robert D. Mitchell Jr. Democratic candidates for delegates to the Constitutional Convention in Albany next year will also be present, including Robert D. Mandia, Ulster County businessman; Louise Phuetze; and Glenn Van Bramer, former assistant to Congressman Resnick.

All of the above are expected to speak at the affair which will offer a full course dinner and entertainment. Tickets are available from all Town Chairmen throughout Ulster County, Democratic Committee men in all towns, cities and villages; and from Florence Klein, ticket chairman, 60 West Chestnut Street.

Klein Makes Statement

Ulster County Democratic Chairman Aaron E. Klein said today that this area has been singularly honored by this planned visit of the gubernatorial candidates.

In urging all Democrats and other interested persons to avail (Continued on Page 5, Col. 3)

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

The dynamic faith of the young Rev. Michael A. Costello preserved the sanctity of Saint Peter's, the only church left standing at Harper's Ferry, W. Va., at the end of the Civil War. Taking his stand in a community that was captured and recaptured eight times, he stayed at his post and defied both the North and the South to defile God's House. At the beginning of the war his superior, Bishop McGill had offered him the opportunity to return to Ireland, his native land, but he refused.

The story has been told that one of General Jackson's lieutenants showed up at St. Peter's one day with an order that the church was to be used to stable horses. Father Costello stood his ground and told the lieutenant, "I take orders only from God and when you bring orders from my Commander you may have the church." The lieutenant withdrew and did not bother the church again. St. Peter's stands today not only to the glory of God but as a memorial to the Father Costello who preserved it.

Trinity Church Concludes VCS; 40 Participate

The Trinity Methodist Church vacation church school completed its two-week program Friday. Classes from kindergarten to sixth grades met from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., Aug. 1-5 and 8-12. A variety of teaching methods and settings were used by the staff using Methodist Vacation Church School curriculum materials.

Besides the more usual methods of lecture, discussion and personal study of Bible passages and student books, records, filmscripts, filmstrips, charts, hymns and songs were used.

The children "learned by doing" through making stabiles, wall hangings (like Japanese "Tokonoma"), picture story theatres (like Japanese "Kamishibai"), acting out parables of the New Testament, constructing murals and table scenes, taking field trips to The Kingston Daily Freeman and Gateway Industries.

The children learned songs and games from many countries and planned their own worship services.

Mrs. Oscar Carlson and Mrs. Gerald Hasbrouck taught the kindergarten course "God's Plan from Families"; Mrs. Bruce Pallen taught the 1-2 grades course, World of Differences; Mrs. Walter Hamilton and the Rev. Richard R. Guice taught the 3-4 grade course, Christian Community Around the World; Mrs. Robert Taylor and Mrs. Richard Guice taught the 5-6 grade course Living as Christians in a World of Conflict.

There were 40 children in attendance. Certificates of recognition will be given to the children at the worship service 10 a. m. Sunday, Aug. 14. The Rev. Mr. Guice, pastor, served as director of the Vacation Church School.

The service of divine worship during the month of August will be held at 10 a. m. with a child care nursery available in the Education Building for children ages 1-6. The Rev. Mr. Hassel will preach on the Letters of Paul during the month of August. The offertory music this week will be by the male quartet. The lay assistant this Sunday will be Alban Woolley. The exhibit of Great Religious Art of the Masters will remain on view in the Fellowship Hall of the church until Wednesday. This exhibit is made possible through the courtesy of the Methodist Board of Education and the National Gallery of Art. Vacation Bible school will begin its two week session on Monday at 9 a. m. with registration open to all youngsters in the community from kindergarten through sixth grade. A nominal registration fee will be the only charge. The Vacation Bible School will feature colorful material as well as music and crafts. Light refreshments will also be served to the children. The session will last until 11:30 a. m. each weekday. The Plutarch Methodist Church will not hold services during the month of August but instead will meet with the New Paltz Methodist Church at the 10 a. m. hour of worship.

EVERYONE WELCOME

IF GOD WERE DEAD

"God is dead!" Some fool has said, Blind Fate rules in His stead.

Time's end will tell, Man-know this well! Then heaven would be hell, If God were dead.

But God is live, Man will survive, He shall the dead revive.

So have no fear, For God is near And all around you here. GOD is alive!

Cleric Discovers Life Ministry in China Interior

By JEAN HELLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Pierce had just $5 in his pocket, a beat-up movie camera on his shoulder and a dog-eared plane ticket to Hong Kong as he tramped through the interior of China 20 years ago. He was an ordained Baptist minister who considered himself "an assistant third flunkie" at his California church. He was in China for no significant reason, looking for nothing in particular.

Found Scant Supplies But when he found three blunted hypodermic needles, a couple of old tin cans and a wooden box, Bob Pierce was moved more deeply than ever before in his life. These were the entire inventory of a "hospital" at which a 20-year-old American nurse was caring for more than 100 lepers.

Pierce, now a doctor of theology, was to recall later: "It so impressed me that on that day, on that spot, I decided I would spend the rest of my life caring for people about whose sincerity I was certain, doing something I knew was good."

That resolution has grown into a California-based organization called World Vision, which has provided millions of dollars for schools, orphanages and hospitals in 18 nations.

Pierce's latest project is in Saigon, South Viet Nam.

"We tried building schools in some Vietnamese villages," he said in an interview. "We tried, but we no sooner had them built than the villages were overrun."

"Then the Lord intervened for us. The French Reformed Church had an acre of land in the middle of Saigon that the government would confiscate for some nation's embassy."

"So they gave it to us — free — for 50 years, and we are building a dormitory, a school and an administration building there for 800 Vietnamese kids." They are children who have had some education, Pierce said. "But for 800 other children from the back country, those who have never had a day of schooling, we want to build another school to get them ready for the more advanced one in Saigon."

Revival Series Starts Monday at Riverview Church

A series of revival worship services will be conducted nightly Monday Aug. 15 through Friday, Aug. 19 at Riverview Baptist Church, 240 Catherine Street, by the Rev. Dudley D. Chatman of Monessen, Pa.

The services are being sponsored by the united effort of several local churches. Music will be by the combined choirs of the participating churches. The public may attend.

Churches participating are The Church of God in Christ, New Central Baptist, Progressive Baptist, Riverview Baptist and St. Mark's AME Churches.

Redeemer Church Has New Intern

James E. Townsend has started his work as parish intern at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. Mr. Townsend, a native of California, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Townsend of Sacramento.

Many Attend Banquet Honoring Visiting Bishop

Many civic and church dignitaries were on hand last week to greet Bishop J. D. Bright when he visited St. Mark's A.M.E. Church enroute to the World Methodist Council meeting in Europe.

At worship services Sunday 4:30 p. m. in the church he spoke on Using the Gifts which God Has Given You.

A banquet was given in honor of the bishop at the Governor Clinton Hotel in the evening. Attorney S. James Matthews was toastmaster.

Among city officials who attended were Hubert A. Richter, city judge; Joseph Torraca, district attorney of Ulster County; and John J. Naccarato, Third Ward alderman. Everett Hodge, president of the Kingston NAACP, and the Rev. C. Pershing Hunter, pastor of St. James Methodist Church also spoke.

The bishop left New York Wednesday for Europe and Asia.

He is bishop of the First Episcopal District of his denomination which comprises Bermuda, Delaware, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and New England.

Vacation Guests Announced by Church in Shady

The following schedule for church services has been released by an official of the Methodist Church of Shady due to the vacation period of the regular minister, the Rev. George Moody.

On Sunday, Aug. 14, the regular evening service at the Shady church will be omitted. The congregation will unite with the Willow Methodist at 11:30 a. m. with the Rev. D. R. Bryon as the guest minister.

Sunday, Aug. 21, the regular 7:30 o'clock evening service will be held at Shady with the Rev. W. R. Peckham as the guest minister.

The Rev. Paul C. Hoyt of Shokan will be the guest speaker at the Shady church on Sunday, Aug. 28 at 7:30, while Labor Day Sunday, Sept. 4, will find Henry P. Elmhurst, lay preacher of the Methodist Church speaking at the evening service on the subject Lasting Impressions.

Music for the three services will be provided by Mrs. Edward Balmer, church organist and choir director.

More in Rockland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The population of Rockland County, N.Y., has risen from 136,803 to 192,724 since 1960, a percentage increase of 40.9, says the U.S. Census Bureau.

The bureau issued that report Friday, based on a special census taken last April and paid for by the county. The last regular census was in 1960.

Buses Are Back In Buffalo After 12-Day Strike

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The buses are rolling again in Buffalo and both riders and drivers are happy that the 12-day strike has ended.

"Bless you, bless all the buses, bless everybody," one exuberant woman rider yelled Friday afternoon as the first bus rolled onto a city street. Full service in Buffalo and its suburbs was restored by early Friday night.

"You really don't miss something until you don't have it," the woman added.

Three-Year Pact

Striking members of Division 1342, Amalgamated Transit Union, AFL-CIO, voted earlier in the day, 399-340, to end the walkout and accept a new three-year contract that was almost identical to the one they rejected July 31.

A total of 1,150 drivers, mechanics and clerks struck Aug. 1 following the expiration of their old contract with the Niagara Frontier Transit System.

The new agreement calls for a 76 cents hourly increase over three years, including 28 cents in cash. A breakdown indicates the workers will receive eight cents an hour in the first year, three cents on Aug. 1, 1967, five cents on Feb. 1, 1968, four cents on Aug. 1, 1968 and eight cents on Feb. 1, 1969.

The major difference between the pact the employees rejected and the new agreement is a change in the pay-increase schedule.

Under the rejected pact, the employees would have received an immediate five-cents-an-hour increase and three cents on Feb. 1. They now will be paid the eight-cent increase immediately.

Provides Pension Fund

The new contract also provides for a funded pension plan to which both the transit system and the employees will contribute. The company will pay $450,000 into the fund over a three-year period and employees will contribute five cents an hour, or $2 a week on a 40-hour work week basis.

Before the increases, drivers were paid $2.75 an hour and mechanics $3.01½ hourly. Clerks received from $90 to $132 a week.

Alex D. Trumble, company president, said the increases will cost the company $1.84 million over three years.

Asked if the settlement meant there would be an increase in the present 25-cent bus fare, Trumble said:

"I have nothing to say at this time."

Plattekill Will Have Larger PO

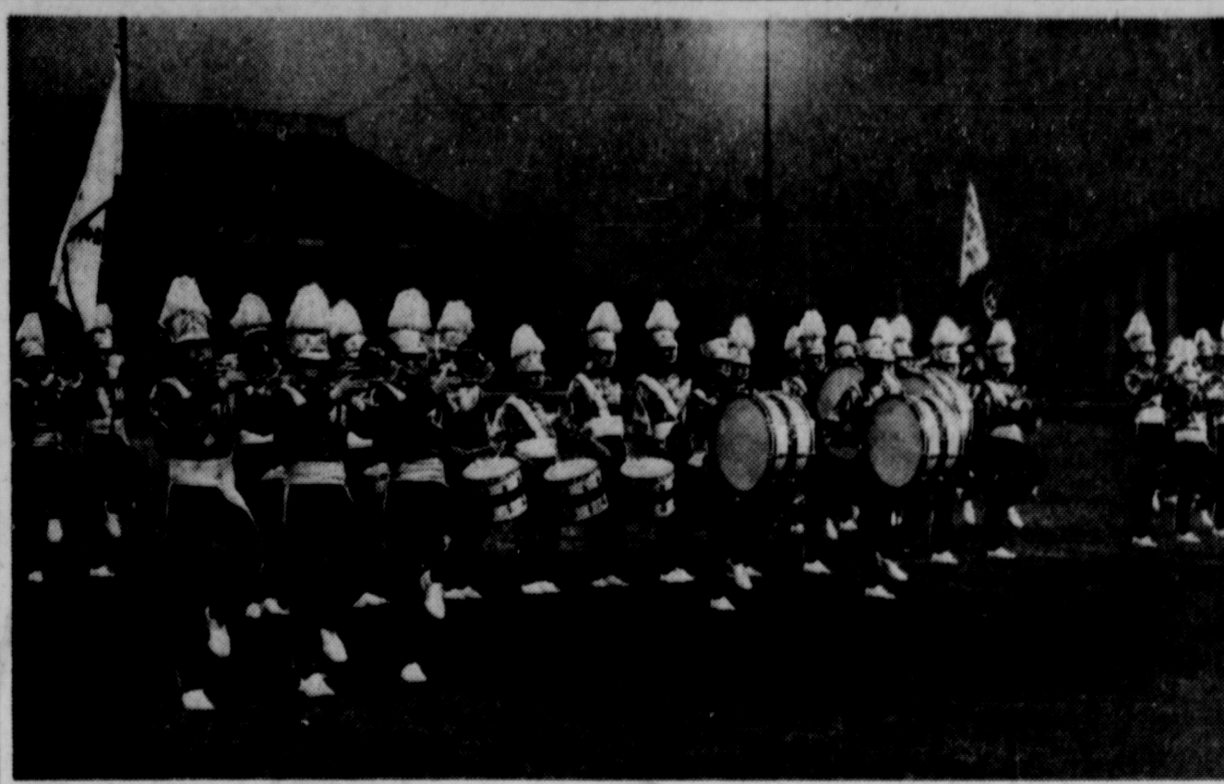

Supervisor Joseph Martorana of Plattekill has announced that he has been advised by letter from the regional director of the U. S. Post Office Department that larger quarters will be acquired for a new Plattekill post office.

Commenting on the news, Martorana noted that it was almost a year since he put in his request through Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's office for a new post office in Plattekill.

The supervisor expressed his appreciation to Congressman Resnick, U. S. Senators Jacob Javits and Robert F. Kennedy and to postal authorities for their cooperation and acceptance of his recommendation.

Martorana concluded a statement that the decision by the regional director to acquire larger postal quarters in Plattekill has been forwarded to the real estate branch of the Post Office Department and it is anticipated that preliminary plans for the new post office will start in the very near future.

The present Plattekill post office is located in a small cabin on Plattekill Corners.

IN DIETZ SHOW TONIGHT—The Toronto Optimists Drum and Bugle Corps, Canadian National Junior Champions, will again provide an international flavor at the Pow Wow of Junior Champions Drum and Bugle Corps competition tonight at Dietz Stadium, starting at 8 o'clock. The contest, which promises to be one of the most thrilling in the East, will feature five other championship corps of the country. The Optimists, who started as a Boy Scout Corps in 1952 and came under the sponsorship of the Optimists Club of Toronto in 1956, will be competing for the second time here for the Pow Wow Championship flag and the $1,000 first prize. They entered their present Junior "A" Class in 1958 and captured the Junior "A" National Championship title at the conclusion of that year.

They have successfully defended this championship for eight consecutive years. Toronto's 1966 show, under the direction of Drum Major Vern Johansson will include in their musical repertoire Food from the musical Oliver, Battle Cry Of Freedom, O'Canada, Eager Beaver, Five Foot Two, Emily, Georgia On My Mind, Frivolous Sal, Sweet Georgia Brown, Thank Heaven For Little Girls, Old Devil Moon and More. Corps Director is Don Daber. Sponsors of this fabulous show is the Troop 12 B.S.A. Indians. Pow Wow tickets are still available at the V.F.W. Hall, 552 Delaware Avenue, Nekos Pharmacy, 309 Wall Street, Rossi's Music Store, 49 North Front Street, Shapiro's Paint Store, 63 North Front Street, and from Otto Swadling, West Hurley.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Zena's Firemen Install Plectron

Captain Charles Wolven told members of Woodstock Fire Company No. 4 that three Plectron alarm units have been purchased by the company and, following delivery recently, have been installed in the homes of officers of the organization. Wolven's report was given at the monthly meeting of the company at the Zena firehouse this week.

The captain also noted that the monthly fire drill will be held this coming Monday at 7 p. m. and he urged all members to attend.

Richard Mellert, chairman of the bazaar committee, presented his group's final report on this summer's big bazaar; expressed the committee's thanks to all members who participated in the event and to all area residents who lent loyal support to the 1966 affair, making it the most successful bazaar ever held by Zena vols.

Chief Plans Drill

Also present at the meeting was Woodstock Fire Chief Duncan Wilson, who reported 13 fires in the district last month, four of which were house fires. He also reported on items discussed at the recent officers' meeting, including the operation of the newly installed Plectron fire alarm system. He said a four-company drill will be held as soon as the present fireman is lifted in this county.

Cards containing the Woodstock fire company's emergency telephone number (OR. nine-two-zero-one-two) have been received by vols and are available from any fireman or from Fred Thais Jr., at the Corner Store, Zena. All residents are urged to obtain a card and place it in a conspicuous place near their telephones as a ready reference in case of fire or other emergency. Residents are also reminded that fire extinguishers are currently being sold by firemen of Company No. 4.

Overdue Post Card

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Mrs. Felix Brissette got a post card recently from her grandson and his wife, reading: "We got to the Falls safe and sound."

The card came from Niagara Falls but the couple hadn't been there recently. The card was postmarked April 23, 1963.

Name Robert Nussbaum and Lillian Bermant to Vacant Seats on Onteora's Board

Beset with two unexpected resignations, due to job transfers for two of its members, the Onteora Board of Education, for a brief period, faced the possibility of being short-handed for the first time in its history.

Although the vast majority of local residents have no particular desire to serve on the Board these days and vacant seats are rarely contested during election campaigns as in years past, it is fortunate that a few can still be persuaded to accept these positions, which offer no financial compensation and often mean long hours of work.

Two such people came forward this month to fill Board seats being vacated by the resignations of Sherman Masten and Lloyd Collins. Masten, who has been serving as dean at Ulster County Community College in addition to Onteora, trustee resigned Aug. 1 to accept a new job as president of Morris Community College, Morristown, N. J. Collins was also forced to resign with what he called "deep regret" as of July 26 to accept a new position with IBM in Boulder, Colo.

To replace the two former trustees, the Board of Education met in special session recently; unanimously appointed Robert Nussbaum of West Hurley to fill the Masten vacancy and Lillian Bermant of West Hurley to fill the Collins vacancy. The terms of both began Aug. 2 and will end May 3, 1967, at which time they may or may not seek reelection at the annual election meeting.

The nomination of Arthur Sampson by trustee Charles Weidner IV as a Board member failed to receive a second.

Why civic duty and the opportunity to have a hand in the moulding of the young no longer appeals to citizens who might make able Board members is a moot question. It is often difficult to persuade anyone to become a candidate for the Board of Education and, when a man or woman elects to run, he or she normally wins by default.

In view of this, it is interesting to note what Lloyd Collins penned in his letters or resignation. Said Collins, "During my years with the Board of Education, many people have asked: Why do you want to be on the Board? What do you get out of it except a lot of headaches? Look-

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

It so happens that I was at the Common Council Chambers at the top of the City Hall, twice in one week. It is a very attractive room, with a decorative ceiling, but there are strange sound effects. Something steals the speaking voice and makes it sound like it comes through a barrel. After all our city laws are being passed there and the acoustics are very odd indeed. Monday morning, when Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan read from a paper on the saving of old landmarks and buildings, it was difficult to hear. They had invited guests sitting in the aldermen chairs, the visiting delegation of students from India, who are visiting the Hudson Valley. There were about a dozen people in the audience otherwise. Perhaps more Kingstonians would go to the Chambers if they could hear and learn what is going on. A mike was brought to Harry Rigby, City Historian, who spoke, and the mike was turned on, at first it worked but then it also began to make a loud sound and had to be shut off. What is wrong with the sound in that Common Council Chamber?

The other evening when the aldermen were going to have their meeting I thought I would drop in, and found only four in the audience. These are interesting and instructive goings on pertaining to our city government and to our very own lives in Kingston, but you just cannot hear a full sentence. The aldermen were nice and tried to speak up, and even turned at times to us four in the audience and still the sound was lost. Ira Warren, a newspaperman with a long experience and necessity for taking down the information, suggested that perhaps the City Court room downstairs could be used in the evening, when not used for other purposes.

Perhaps old timers who remember the City Hall before the fire in 1927, can tell us something about how the Common Council meetings were held then before it was rebuilt and redecorated. It seems the talents of the old timers when it comes to acoustics is lost. Incidentally, most of our students of public and high school are happy if they can manage one language, English. It is remarkable students coming from other countries like India, first of all speak a clear precise English, remarkable for their large vocabulary, seldom repeating phrases as it is natural for us to do. I met others recently from Asia Minor, who also spoke beautiful English, besides their own language, and perhaps a fluent French also. The ladies from India wear their dark hair long and in a braid or bun, and have lovely silk, colorful long graceful gowns of print or embroidery material, which is so becoming to them. They also wear sandals. They stay with their traditional lovely clothes. They are very happy, and easy to talk to, smile and laugh and joke, and have very warm dispositions.

Recently I read in one of the New York papers, that the American-Chinese children, after going to the American school, go to their own schools to learn their own Chinese culture and traditions and language, which is difficult as there are so many characters in the alphabet. There is very little or no crime or juvenile delinquents among their children, the article explained. They have and are taught respect for their name, their parents and family so do not desire to bring shame on their family and people. Visitors from foreign lands to our old Colonial City seem to be interested in the old stone houses and America's proud history of Kingston being the first capital of the Empire State of New York.

21 Men Stranded In Upstate Area Say Jobs Refused

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Twenty-one Negro men from the South are stranded in Buffalo because they say they were refused work on tobacco farms in northern Ontario, Canada.

Three others were able to return home Friday on funds provided by their families.

Mrs. Muriel C. Currier of the Buffalo Travelers' Aid Society said the 21 men, without funds, have been referred to the New York State Employment Service for work on farms in the state. The men hope to earn enough money to return home.

At 24 men traveled from North Carolina and Georgia on one-way tickets supplied by public agencies.

Mrs. Currier said that for years only white men have been sent through her agency for work as farm hands in the tobacco-growing sections of the Simcoe, Sarnia and Tillsonburg areas of Ontario. This year marked the first time Negroes were sent, she added.

The men said they had been promised jobs but were refused work when they arrived. Some said Ontario farmers told them they were not hiring Negroes or that they had enough white workers, Mrs. Currier said.

Arnold McCord, Canadian Employment Service director at Simcoe, denied any racial problem and said that Negroes and Jamaicans are working in the area.

When the men were refused the promised jobs, McCord said, they should have returned to the Employment Service for other assignments or their transportation home.

Workers skilled in curing tobacco can earn between $600 and $1,000 in six weeks and are recruited through an agreement among the Canadian Employment Service, the Ontario Flue Cured Tobacco Growers Marketing Board and the United States Employment Service. Each worker has a work permit and is tentatively assigned to a farm, Mrs. Currier said.

Samuels Picks Up Nine More Votes In Area Counties

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y. (AP) — Howard Samuels has picked up at least nine delegate votes for the Democratic nomination for governor in Orange and Sullivan counties, it was announced Friday.

That would give the Canandaigua industrialist 104 publicly pledged votes toward the necessary 573.

Orange County Democratic Chairman Sears Hunter said a majority of the county's nine delegates will support Samuels. Sullivan County Chairman Francis Hanoffee said all four of its delegates are for the upstate.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, AUGUST 13, 1966

A SMALL PRICE TO PAY

Charles Whitman's murderous rampage at Austin has predictably touched off a resurgence of controversy over proposed federal legislation to tighten control over the sale and possession of firearms. This is welcome, though the arguments in support of such legislation were just as strong before the Austin tragedy.

Unfortunately, much discussion of this issue is couched in emotional terms. What is needed, instead, is rational consideration to the problem, and of the extent to which gun control laws would improve matters.

Opponents of legislation in this area often sound as though the proposal was to take everyone's guns away, or to keep everyone from buying guns. Nothing like that has ever been responsibly advocated. The proposed legislation is aimed mainly at making it more difficult for youngsters, psychopaths and criminals to get their hands on firearms. The great majority of adults would still be able to buy and possess guns, but would simply be required to have their purchases registered—just as, for example, the purchase of an automobile is registered.

Opponents of a sensible gun control law also make much of the constitutional right to bear arms, conveniently ignoring the salient fact that this right originally was based on the need for a citizen militia. The duties of such a militia have long since been taken over by our defense establishment. The "right to bear arms" argument thus is scarcely germane to the present dispute.

The best argument against gun control is that it would not wholly guarantee against future Texas Tower episodes or other illicit use of firearms. That cannot be denied. But there is good reason to think that such a law would improve matters. The inconvenience of registration would be a small price to pay for that.

A SHODDY TRIUMPH

Blood stains the wall of concrete and steel that sunders the city of Berlin. It is the blood of human beings who have tried to break through from Communist East Berlin into the free western sector since the wall was erected five years ago. Their blood says to all the world: East Germany is a prison, and the puppet Communist regime is the jailer.

The East German Communists are making a great show of the fifth anniversary of the day when miles of barbed wire were first strung as the forerunner of the wall. They are acclaiming the barrier as a triumph for communism. But the more they brag of this victory, the more attention they focus on the truth of the matter—that had they not built the wall and mounted shoot-to-kill guards over it, they would soon have been masters of a hollow shell.

It is true that the wall has virtually halted the flow of East Germans to the west. But that is the very essence of the matter. Hundreds of thousands of refugees had fled the dictatorial Communist regime, and there was no sign that the flood was abating. There is good reason to think that, after five years, the flood would pour westward again if the wall were to come down. That is why the Communists have to maintain this barrier. It is a poor triumph indeed that they celebrate.

AGAINST ALL ODDS

At last report, two pairs of intrepid fellows with strong backs were rowing across the Atlantic. If they make it their feat will come close to matching Robert Manry's achievement of sailing alone from America to England in Tinkerbell.

One thinks also of the men who venture to climb Mount Everest and other great peaks. Not to mention the more recent undertaking of Jean Pierre Marquant, the Frenchman who managed a midsummer hike across Death Valley in heat that threatened to felled him on the sands and near the life out of him.

These and similar efforts have one thing in common—a courageous defiance of the limitations imposed by man's environment,

Diplomatic reports of a possible cut in Russia's armed forces in East Germany are more evidence that the East-West conflict has shifted from Europe to Viet Nam and Southeast Asia.

Moscow's present military strength in its German satellite is estimated at 20 divisions.

According to East European diplomats, the Kremlin plans to withdraw five divisions and to strengthen missile units stationed in Germany to offset the reduction in the number of troops.

Such a drastic change in the Red Army's strategy would indeed indicate that Russia's military experts consider the situation in Europe "frozen."

The diplomats see it as additional proof that the Kremlin is not likely to embark on military adventures in the West in the foreseeable future.

The Russians, like the United States, find it increasingly costly to maintain their troops in East Europe. But in their case the reason for a possible cutback is probably not only financial but also strategic.

Russia has 17 divisions in the Far East, not all of which are at full strength. Red Army strategists apparently no longer regard them as adequate for their task in view of the increased tension along the 4,000-mile Chinese-Russian border.

Nor has Russia ever relished the idea of fighting on two fronts, the Far East and West. However the Kremlin leaders have made it clear in the past that they would be unwilling to thin out their troops in East Europe unilaterally. Since 1963, in fact, it has been Moscow's declared policy to bargain for a reduction of the number of Soviet soldiers in East Germany only parallel with an equivalent reduction of American troops in West Germany.

This was emphasized again by Soviet Ambassador Zorin at the March meeting of the Warsaw Pact nations, NATO's counterpart in the Red world.

Said Zorin, "The Warsaw Pact nations would either reduce their military forces or even abolish them if a corresponding move is undertaken by the NATO allies in West Europe."

A parallel statement, though worded cautiously and diplomatically, was made on June 16 by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

NATO's military requirements are "related" to Russia's troop deployments in East Europe, Rusk said. Any "force reduction in the West would have to take that into consideration."

Does this mean, as the West Germans believe, that the United States and Russia, despite their public hostility over Viet Nam, are quietly negotiating military cutbacks in Europe?

State Department officials insist that all reports about planned withdrawals of U.S. combat troops from Europe are "incorrect."

Yet Rusk's and Zorin's statements seem to imply that for the first time in years a planned parallel and reciprocal reduction—not necessarily accompanied by public announcements—is beginning to be considered in Washington and Moscow.

Your Dental Health

In Operating Room There's Danger in False Teeth

"Dearie," said the nurse, "kindly remove your false teeth before you go into the operating room." This request is standard hospital procedure. Removable dental appliances are distinct hazards when a patient is put to sleep with general anesthesia.

G.A. requires air passages to be open and clear. This is accomplished by a technique called intubation—placing a tube through the mouth and throat into the windpipe.

This long, rigid, plastic tube is curved in a way that normally allows easy access into the windpipe, the other end projecting from the mouth.

Rarely and only in unusually small mouths, or mouths with narrow openings is there any difficulty. Upper front teeth are major problems. Many anesthetists have often wished that upper front teeth never existed.

Removing full and partial dentures is a blessing for anesthetists; with no teeth in the way it's much easier to intubate. For patients it's a MUST; it eliminates possibility of breaking the denture and danger of sucking a piece of it into the lungs.

"Permanent" caps on front teeth can also be a problem. Some caps match natural teeth so perfectly that anesthetists don't know they're false; and patients have been wearing them so long they forget they are not part of their natural anatomy.

But caps are more brittle than natural teeth and the anesthetist MUST BE WARNED. In a recent operation, a patient was put to sleep for minor surgery. She had a small mouth and intubation was difficult. In the struggle two caps on upper front teeth broke. There was a thorough search until all pieces were accounted for. This is always an anxious moment because if a piece can't be found, the assumption is that it was aspirated, that is, sucked into the lungs.

During another operation, patient began coughing and showing signs of distress. The tube had to be removed. In trying to reposition it, a front cap was broken and one piece couldn't be found. Chest X-rays didn't show it in the lungs. It was finally found in the gauze mouth pack.

Foreign matter in lungs is difficult to locate and remove, and can cause serious trouble.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

with no more "practical" purpose than to match determination and endurance against physical barriers. Sometimes it all appears rather silly. And then again, it strikes one as splendid reassurance that man will persist and prevail despite the odds arrayed against him.

A 'LUXURY' IS DERAILED

The New York Central Railroad is eliminating all its passenger trains between Chicago and New York and other long-haul runs as of January 1, 1967.

It will operate no more overnight sleepers, dining cars or similar luxuries. In their place will be a "Spartan" system of rail travel geared for high-speed travel between points less than 200 miles apart.

So there goes another of the touches we once thought made life in the 20th century a little more pleasant and gracious.

Maybe this is progress. Maybe it and other moves to substitute "Spartan" for "gracious" living are necessary in the go-go space age.

But that WAS a nice ride between Chicago and New York wasn't it? Sixteen whole hours to relax a little and get there rain or shine, calm or turbulent, foggy or clear.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

Signs multiply from coast to coast that both whites and Negroes are misreading the real prospects which confront them in this country.

On the Negro side, all too few leaders realize — and virtually none dares acknowledge publicly — that there is not going to be anything approaching "freedom now" for millions of deprived Negroes.

The better jobs, schools and housing they seek are going to come slowly. Open revolt may seem here and there to speed action but the calamitous events in the big cities since 1964 suggest it is more likely to impede it.

As for the majority whites, they are deluding themselves if they imagine that serious change on the racial front can be deferred past their lifetimes. Today's 20 million Negroes will soon be 25 million, and then 30 million. Their presence — and their problems — cannot be wished away with a wand.

Far too many Negro leaders have raised Negro expectations miles beyond the practical prospect for early fulfillment. They — and some of their sympathetic white friends — then have left to a puzzled and sometimes overwhelmed police the problem of dealing with the terrible frustrations thus stirred.

A surprising number of allegedly responsible Negroes are blinding themselves to the damaging consequences of riot and near-riot. Convinced that pressure works, they draw no fine distinctions between what is extreme and what is not.

NAACP leader Roy Wilkins told this reporter he made little headway when arguing with one Negro in a meeting that it was just as bad for Negroes in Watts to pull whites out of their cars and beat them as it was for whites to beat fatally a young Negro who sought a job in all-white Cicero, Ill. Said Wilkins at the time: "Black death, white death, it's all the same."

Though dramatic protest and reaction brought the passage of the major 1964 and 1965 Civil Rights Acts, it appears only partly true that "the squeaky wheel gets the grease." There is ample evidence that the squeaky wheel is driving millions of urban whites out of earshot.

White schools and white residential areas pushed against with screaming slogans quickly turn all black, and the "de facto segregation" complained of in northern cities simply widens its arena.

Deep new fears are aroused and vital white good will, none too robust in some cities, is rapidly dissipated.

In their righteous indignation over lawlessness excused in the name of legitimate Negro aspirations, many whites are, however, equating civil order with no progress at all for the Negro.

An Orange County, Calif., conservative conceded privately not long ago that racial change had to come eventually. But he hoped to avoid the discomfort of it while he is alive.

Despite all the unrest of this and earlier summers, this kind of hope seems to govern even the most responsible white business, professional and civic leadership in countless large American communities.

The spirit of urgency President Johnson evidently hoped to engender by his June White House Conference on Civil Rights has not really enlisted the white community. With only occasional exceptions, it is still acting as if the massive problems of the Negroes — and the urban cores they occupy — can be merely nibbled at.

Notwithstanding the contentions of our foreign critics, Americans do not like to attend to even one war at a time. To ask them to get fired up about two at once — in faraway Viet Nam and in their own cities — is to seek a great deal.

The cost of the Viet Nam fighting already is pinching economically. White leaders just shake their heads when Negro spokesmen talk of $100 billion betterment programs.

Yet some kind of urgency, producing action on the grand scale, which means big money, is believed in key government circles here to be crucial to sane progress on the racial front.

If big and actionable plans are not to be the final consequence of the June conference, then the outlook would seem to be for more civil turmoil — violent Negro protest tending toward riot, and increasingly violent white reaction. The nation cannot forever suffer such deep wounds and have any mutual white-Negro good will left to bridge the great racial chasm which threatens it.

Paltz Blood Bank Faces Deficit; Requests Donors

The New Paltz-Gardiner Blood Bank in reportedly in debt. For the first time in the six years of its existence, the community service blood bank under the sponsorship of the VFW and directed by Dr. Harri Janssen is running in deficit.

Since the blood bank was begun there have been 661 pints of blood donated. In cash value this represents, at $30 a pint, which is the average price in this area, almost $20,000 of this total 139 pints have been donated by college students from the State University. Dr. Janssen reiterated this week that all residents, including temporary residents from the college, are eligible for full coverage of blood needs from the bank's resources. "But, we are in a bind at the moment," he said. "Our supply of blood has been used and we are two pints overdrawn. That is why we desperately need the support of all the people in the New Paltz-Gardiner area to replenish the reserve."

All inhabitants of the area will have an opportunity to demonstrate their concern for the importance of a blood bank August 25 from 7-9 p. m. when blood will be drawn. The location of the drawing will be the VFW Hall in New Paltz. All persons 18 to 56 are eligible to offer their blood for this community blood bank. Dr. Janssen will conduct the drawing and will conduct tests. All interested persons should present themselves during drawing hours for testing and donating.

"Ours is a community type bank which means everyone who lives in the area is completely covered for all blood requirements," Dr. Janssen remarked. "No matter how much blood is needed by a patient we cover it. One case not long ago involved a patient who needed some 30 pints of blood. The bank that the family supported would only cover half of the requirements. Our bank, because the family lives here, covered the remainder."

From this example the residents of New Paltz and Gardiner should easily understand that the blood bank is an indispensable service in the community, and worthy of optimum support. During Dr. Janssen's year of post graduate study which ended only recently, the functions of the Blood Bank have been under the directions of Dr. William Pugliese. Dr. Pugliese, with the able assistance of Mrs. Helen Liucci, Mrs. Ethel Fracasse, Mrs. Ethyl Savago, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Corey, conducted the blood program in the same service-rendering tradition established over the history of the blood bank.

There is an urgent need for blood in the New Paltz-Gardiner Blood Bank. Every resident of the area shares in the responsibility of perpetuating this service. New donors are required to fill the needs. Members of the Gallon Club and other previous donors are again asked to donate. Appointments may be made by calling Mrs. Liucci or Mrs. Corey.

were not received at the expected time.

Notices Trigger Protests
When draft-eligible students began to receive their 1-A notices the latter part of July, the phone calls and hastily-written letters began to come in.

The date problem was promptly solved by the State selective service headquarters and the local draft boards, who reset a correct date of Aug. 15 for reclassification of students whose standings were not received.

But forewarned of the impending change to class 1-A, additional scores of students decided they would like to have their class standings submitted to the boards after all. Forms they had previously submitted had indicated the standings should not be sent to selective service.

New Paltz, like a number of colleges and universities, does not release standings except at the student's specific request. During the past week, several hundred new forms have been sent to men who have had second thoughts about the draft question and want to make a last minute change.

The college this spring was the scene of a week-long sit-in by about 15 male students and a number of women students who opposed use of class standings "on principle." Some of the men have asked for a change, apparently basing their new decisions "on fact," the college said.

Noble Bright, College registrar said that all the draft boards had been extremely cooperative in delaying the reclassification of students as soon as they were notified of the mid-June closing date at New Paltz.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — U.S. Indian Commissioner Robert L. Bennett says the population of the nation's Indian reservations is expected to remain stable for the next 50 years.

$10,000 Goal Is of New York National Bank on Wall Street where they will be counted and tallied Monday.

$10,000 Counted
An unofficial tabulation of $10,500 was recorded about 4 p. m. Friday at WKNY, which cancelled its regular programming schedule for the day so that it could promote the campaign. And money was still coming in late into the night and early today.

Temporarily in charge of administering the revenues will be Harry Rigby Jr., city historian and vice president of the State of New York National Bank; and Ed Bernstein, manager of WKNY. Rigby said a special committee for the Jacqueline Santosky Fund would be created early next week.

The committee will buy the kidney dialyzer machine from Travenol Laboratories in Morton Grove, Ill., on Monday or Tuesday and arrange to pay for operating expenses while Mrs. Santosky is hopefully recuperating.

Clinic Planned
The machine, along with surplus funds collected, will be donated toward establishing a special kidney clinic for community use at one of the local hospitals, Rigby said. The clinics will be the only medical service between Albany and New York City using the expensive kidney dialyzer.

The Benedictine and Kingston City Hospital Boards of Directors will meet in the near future to decide which hospital will assume responsibility for the machine and the clinic.

Freeman Story Started It
It all started Thursday afternoon after a story appeared in The Freeman explaining Mrs. Santosky's plight. Area residents early in the evening started calling in funds to Mr. and Mrs. John F. DeVoll of Tillson, the ailing woman's parents.

DeVoll referred the calls to The Freeman office. Later, two of the local radio stations announced that their studios would be available to receive the contributions.

The story also was carried by the national wire services and appeared in newspapers and over radio stations in New York City, Chicago and Boston. Contributions from these locations were subsequently forthcoming.

III Since Eight
Mrs. Santosky, whose husband, Richard, works for a plastics plant in New Jersey is 27 years old and has had a defective kidney condition since she was eight. She suffered a severe bilateral attack two weeks ago at her parents' home in Tillson, and was transferred to Albany Medical Center from Benedictine Hospital.

Medical authorities at Albany informed her family that she had from "two weeks to two months to live." It was then that her husband, father and mother decided to see if they could raise $10,000 for the dialysis, which they believe may save her life.

The dialysis operates by drawing blood out of the patient's arteries, purifying the blood of poisonous materials and filtering it back into the circulatory system. It is an action ordinarily performed by healthy kidneys.

Not A Guarantee
Medical authorities have pointed out that the dialyzing machine will not guarantee life for the woman at Albany Medical Center. But their consensus, in the words of at least one of Jacqueline Santosky's physicians, is "by all means worth a try."

Even if her health is restored, however, Mrs. Santosky will never be able to lead a truly normal life. She will have to restrict herself to a special diet and must undergo treatments on the machine at least two times a week for the rest of her life.

A man of hope late Friday afternoon was the young woman's father, John DeVoll. He was standing in front of his car in midtown Kingston, getting ready to take his wife home to Tillson. A little girl with blonde hair had just approached them with her money bank.

She took the copper out of the bottom of the bank, and emptied 26 pennies into his hands. "This is for the sick lady," she said. Mrs. DeVoll broke down and wept. "This is the happiest day of my life," her husband said, through his own tears.

Our philosophers, historians and writers of tragedy tell us that human life is short, and that it is full of woe. But it is full of much joy, too. Ask Mr. and Mrs. DeVoll. Ask the people of Ulster County. Ask anyone.

O'Connor Given Suffolk Support, Vote Is Scored

SMITHTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — Suffolk County delegates to the Democratic state convention have voted to support Frank D. O'Connor for governor.

The vote Friday night appeared to be a damaging blow to the hopes of Nassau County Executive Eugene H. Nickerson, another candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

27 for O'Connor
Nickerson had been counting on support from Suffolk, which adjoins his own home base on Long Island.

The Suffolk delegation cast 27 votes for O'Connor, with 7 for Nickerson and 4 delegates abstaining. Under the unit rule adopted by the delegation last month, this would deliver all the county's 38 votes to O'Connor.

However, Nickerson supporters said they would fight the unit vote and could ask that the delegation be polled at the convention in Buffalo Sept. 7-8. Nassau County Democratic leader John F. English, Nickerson's chief campaign strategist, said he was "shocked at your fraudulent" because, he said, "producers" from delegates in Nassau County were placed in the O'Connor column.

"Tonight's fraudulent vote counting by the newly elected Suffolk County chairman Dominic Baranello represents a complete distortion of the relative strength of Mr. Nickerson and Mr. O'Connor in Suffolk County," English said.

In Albany, where he wound up a day-long Update tour, O'Connor called the Suffolk vote "one of the most important swings to my candidacy that has taken place."

To Meet Kennedy
O'Connor, New York City Council President, said he planned to meet this weekend with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy to try to gain Kennedy's support in the nomination contest, which has two other candidates: Frank D. Roosevelt Jr. and Canandaigua industrialist Howard Samuels.

Earlier, O'Connor had said in Binghamton that there was a "sharp division" among Liberal party members on whether to endorse him.

The Liberal party, which generally supports Democratic candidates, has threatened to run its own gubernatorial candidate this year, and the Liberal leadership is thought to be cool to O'Connor.

themselves of this rare opportunity to meet the four prominent candidates for governor, as well as such local officials as County Sheriff William B. Martin, Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan and City Court Judge Hubert Richter, Klein said: "All indications are that Democrats will lead this state as of Jan. 1 and it is likely that one of our honored guests Aug. 27 will be the next Governor of New York State. This then is an opportunity to preview that man."

Bobbies Push . . .

a Scotland Yard spokesman said.

He gave this account: As he, Sgt. Christopher Tippet Head, 30, walked toward the parked car he was shot through the head and fell to the roadway. Detective Constable David Wombwell, 25, father of two, was shot through the heart as he went to Head's aid.

Constable Geoffrey Fox, 41, driver of the car and father of three, was shot as he drove the car at one of the gunmen. Fox's body was pushed from behind the steering wheel before one of the attackers drove the car over one of the policemen in the street.

Armed police, furnished with a description of the car and its license number, surrounded a house in North London Friday night and took a onetime owner of the car in for questioning. He said he had sold the car about a year ago to a mechanic. The mechanic had sold it to someone else.

The last time three policemen were killed in a single incident was in 1910, when the late Sir Winston Churchill, then home secretary, directed a shotgun against Bobbies in a battle against supposed anarchists in London's East End.

Secrecy Shrouds

government seizure of the airlines, a move that failed in both House and Senate committees.

Meanwhile, sources said there is little hope of realistic negotiations unless the airlines boosted at least slightly the contract offer that had been rejected by the strikers in an overwhelming vote July 31.

That offer would have provided over three years an estimated package of increased wages and fringe benefits of 72 cents an hour. Post mechanics now earn $3.52 per hour plus fringe benefits.

But there are indications that negotiators for the airlines, United, Northwest, Eastern, National and Trans World, are inclined to await the outcome of the legislation before making any new contract offers.

AFL-CIO President George Meany and other labor leaders have made it clear they will view any legislation as antilabor, a warning that will have considerable effect on the thinking of members of Congress who are up for re-election in November.

Milk Price Is $4.75, Up 28 Cents on June

NEW YORK (AP) — The administrator of the New York-New Jersey milk market says dairy farmers in the two-state milkshed will get $4.75 a hundredweight for July milk deliveries to pool handlers.

The figure announced Friday by Dr. A. J. Pollard is up 28 cents from the previous month. Receipts from producers totaled 904 million pounds, 4.6 per cent less than July of 1965, Pollard said. The number of producers also dropped 3,334 to 36,156.

Fluid milk sales made up 51.1 per cent of the July pool, compared with 49.1 per cent in July a year ago.

Paper Publishes Text of Letters From Candidates

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Milton J. Shapp, the Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, criticized the objectivity of the Philadelphia Inquirer, the Inquirer reported in a front page story in Saturday's editions.

Shapp, in a letter to Walter H. Annenberg, editor and publisher, said he was "shocked at your complete lack of objectivity in reporting the news as it concerns my role," in the campaign. "It is common talk and common knowledge throughout Philadelphia and among state newspapers that you are out to 'get Shapp,'" the paper said Shapp wrote.

The Inquirer carried no comment or reply to Shapp in the story, but in the editorial page.

Shapp also objected to an Aug. 10 story in the Inquirer of a taped interview with Randolph Holmes who said he was hired by Shapp at $125 a week as a public relations man for Negro athletes to obtain aid for Shapp. Holmes has recently been charged with attempting to bribe a juror in a burglary case in Philadelphia, Friday's story said.

Shapp, in his letter, said he thought the paper in a story "sought to imply that I personally bore responsibility for the recent activities" of Holmes. The Inquirer then printed the text of Shapp's letter, that ran 12 paragraphs.

Shapp said near the end he did not expect nor seek the support of the Inquirer, but "I ask for fair play and call upon you to demonstrate your moral responsibility as an editor and publisher to see that I get it in your news columns."

made," Brach said, "will be defeating the very purpose for which the specialists are hired, will be contrary to all the rules of the State Department of Health and may do great harm for the future of Ulster County. Only certain number of test wells may be drilled. To not drill them in the very best potential yield areas will not provide the most water for the future needs of the county."

Brach Urges Patience
Barch urged the Board of Supervisors "please be patient" and noted that plans will be proposed for supplying the future water needs of every section of the county. "What is proposed will be a result of thinking of the best minds we have been able to hire, but it will take some time," Brach said.

County Attorney Abram F. Moynaux in reply to an inquiry of Supervisor DeFelice early in June, said he had been informed by the engineering firm of Brinier and Larios, who are conducting the water study, that none of the test holes to be drilled, wherever located, can be left in place, and that the casings must be removed.

Moynaux suggested that DeFelice keep in touch with the engineers and if, in the event a test hole or test holes are to be drilled within the town of Rosendale that the supervisor ascertain the location of these holes and other pertinent data relative to these wells, and to negotiate on his own for water rights and other rights incidental to the furnishing of a new source of water.

The county attorney noted that it will not be possible for DeFelice on behalf of the Town of Rosendale, to take advantage of any of the temporary facilities used in making the study.

President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines indicated he thought an appeal by the Philippines, Thailand and Malaysia for an Asian-sponsored Viet Nam peace conference might succeed if it received less publicity.

— Marcos and Ky, in a joint communique at the end of Ky's visit, said they "recognized the need for closer relations and more cooperative endeavor among Asian countries of like mind and interest in order to promote greater peace and prosperity."

Plans Eight Hearings

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Democratic State Platform committee will hold eight public hearings in the state this month and next to get suggestions for its platform for the fall campaign.

The dates and places of the hearings, announced by the committee Friday, are:

Aug. 22 — Philadelphia; Aug. 22 — Scranton; Aug. 26 — Erie; Aug. 29 — Allentown Bethlehem-Easton area; Sept. 9 — Pittsburgh; Sept. 12 — Williamsport; Sept. 19 — Altoona-Johnstown.

FDR Jr. Calls Parents' Life As Beautiful

NEW YORK (AP) — Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., commenting Friday on a portion of a forthcoming book concerning a romance between his father, the late President, and the late Lucy Mercer Rutherford, said: "My mother and father had a beautiful and ideal life together. Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford were friends of the family and occasionally visited with us."

The book, "The Time Between Two Wars," by Jonathan Daniels, a former White House aide and now editor of the Raleigh, N. C. News and Observer, says that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt "was bitter and jealous of Lucy during all the years until the last when at Roosevelt's death at age 73 in 1945 she found that Lucy, on one of her several trips to Warm Springs, Ga., had been with her Mrs. Roosevelt's husband when he died."

Mrs. Robert W. Knowlton of Aiken, S.C., daughter of Lucy Mercer's marriage to Winthrop Rutherford, described disclosures in Daniels' book as "quite a surprise to me." She said she recalled occasional visits to the Roosevelts in the White House for tea or luncheon when she was in her teens.

Miss Mercer served as Mrs. Roosevelt's social secretary from 1914 to 1917. Miss Mercer married Rutherford in 1920. He died in 1944 and she died in 1948 at the age of 57. Mrs. Roosevelt was 78 when she died in 1962.

At Aiken, S.C., Mrs. Eulalie Salley, 82, who said she was a friend of the Rutherford family, commented:

"Of course he, Roosevelt, was in love with her. So was every man who ever knew Lucy Rutherford. But to hint that there was anything scandalous in their relationship is perfectly ridiculous."

On Thursday another Roosevelt son, James, said: "I was a very small boy in 1918. I was about 11 and not aware of anything."

There was no comment from the late President's other two sons, John and Elliott.

Daniels commented that he was "quite surprised by the commotion" caused by passages in his new book, to be published Aug. 19.

Halt Drug . . .

31, Boston, also was stabbed. The injured guards were taken to Woodward Hospital. None was reported in serious condition.

Floor Is Littered
The riot squad members said that when they arrived in the dispensary, the floor was littered with empty paper cups, pills, water and paper.

Frederick Butterworth, deputy superintendent of the prison, was the first law enforcement official in the dispensary after the inmates took control of it.

He said he calmly told them, "This is foolish, now line up and move back to your cells."

"The combination of his advice and the show of force seemed to convince them to obey," Dunne said.

The prison is located on a rural site about 25 miles southwest of Boston.

Hits Loose Method
State Rep. John J. Conte, chairman of a special legislative commission investigating the use of drugs in state institutions, hurried to the scene.

He said, "The looseness of the method with which drugs are dispensed at the prison must be curtailed."

Prison Supt. Plamer C. Scafati said: "There may have been some barbiturates handed out. Most of the medicine, however, might be routinely bought at a drug store, such as aspirin, he said.

Oct. November — during the Northeast power blackout — inmates of the same prison rampaged for four hours.

Bar Group Announces Awards, Elmira Cited

MONTREAL (AP) — Awards for outstanding accomplishments by U. S. cities, counties and judicial districts in traffic court procedures and administration have been announced by the American Bar Association.

The awards were announced during the ABA's annual convention, here this week.

The top award in the 750,000 to 1,000,000 population group went to the Dade County, Fla., metropolitan court for the sixth consecutive year.

Seattle, Wash., Warren, Ohio; Elmira, N. Y.; and Iron Mountain, Mich., were cited for achieving progress during the 1965-1966 period.

Elmira won first place among cities of 25,000 to 50,000 population.

Mystery Broadens

Flamingo in Mich.

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's Flamingo mystery broadened today when one of the tropical birds was sighted wading along the shore line of this Lake Michigan city.

Three weeks ago, a Flamingo was spotted wading in Lake Huron, 15 miles from Rogers City, Mich.

As the Flamingo flies, it is 258 miles from Rogers City to South Haven; twice as far by the Straits of Mackinac water route.

Conservation officers believe the bird or birds may have escaped from a zoo but no zoo has reported a missing Flamingo.

The birds are native to Florida. Reportedly, the farthest north a wild Flamingo has traveled was Palm Beach, Fla., in 1908.

Convicted of Murder, Lauds Prosecutor

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Timothy Malumphy, 23, was convicted Friday night of two counts of murder, then congratulated the prosecutor for doing a good job.

He had taken the stand earlier and asked the jury to convict him. "I should die," he said. The slain men, Robert Lee Bartlebaugh, 25, and Constantine Karabogios, 30, didn't deserve to live, Malumphy told the jury. They were waiters at a plush suburban restaurant, like Malumphy. The shooting was April 15.

Superior Court Judge Donald Daughton will pronounce sentence Aug. 25. The jury recommended the death penalty.

Explains Factors That Might Cause Problem for Reds

AP News Analysis
By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The major significance of North Korea's declaration of ideological independence from both Peking and Moscow may be that it comes at a time when similar unrest has been developing for many months in other Communist nations.

Administration experts here believe, however, that the differences among Communist nations does not necessarily mean any easing of the Communist fight against the United States and other non-Communist nations.

The intra-party differences, it is explained, arise from many factors:

—A growing spirit of nationalism among all nations.

—The rising demand of peoples for greater personal progress and comforts.

—Resentment at failure of old-line Communist ideology in such areas as agricultural production.

—Man's desire for his own property, security and well-being for himself and better opportunities for his family.

—The increasing penetration of the Iron Curtain, wherever it exists, by tourists.

—And the incessant shortages and sacrifices in Communist nations.

What the experts call a polycentric trend in communism has been developing over many months, they explain. This is a move toward creation of many centers of doctrine, rather than accepting blindly the Communist ideology of any one country.

The North Korean declaration Friday put it this way:

"One country of the party cannot serve as the center of the world revolution or the leadership party."

Curiously, this declaration coincides with repeated statements of Cuba's Fidel Castro on the same line. Some officials have explained Castro's recent absence from the forefront of things in Cuba — and from his restraint in discussing communism's intra-party debate — as suggesting that Moscow may have ordered him to keep his mouth shut about global Communist issues.

The highly controlled Communist press in recent months has been revealing signs of sharp ideological debate in such places as Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Albania and Yugoslavia.

One expert said recently that Castro and Moscow leaders may find themselves in a phase of "great frustration." Cited as explained, could be disturbed by the restraints by the Russians and the troubles of expanding his revolution to Latin America generally.

And Moscow may be disturbed at the cost — estimated at about $1 million a day — of keeping the Castro regime afloat as well as by the Communist setbacks in Latin America and the troubles with its own satellites and Peking.

Male Cook Charged In Syracuse Shooting

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Richard J. Price, 28, of nearby Liverpool, was shot to death early today, and the Sheriff's Department charged a 27-year-old male cook with first-degree manslaughter.

H. Patrick Milmore, employed by a pancake house, was held for arraignment.

Sheriff's men said the body of Price, a trucking-firm worker in Syracuse, was found in the kitchen of Milmore's home in suburban Mattydale, with a 22 caliber rifle wounds of the head and chest.

No motive for the slaying was disclosed.

Milmore lives at 109 Richfield Boulevard. Price lived at 810 Second Street.

Home Extension Service News

Phyllis W. Barlow, extension home economist, submits the following article on carpets:

Carpets of different colors and patterns may create surprising effects. Imagine a light, solid color carpet in your room. Watch the room become light and spacious with a restful, airy feeling. Now picture the room in a carpet of heavy texture with some variation of shading and light reflection. The room appears cozy and inviting, and the carpet is interesting without being dominant. This time visualize the room with a bright colored floral patterned carpet. Watch the room grow smaller, the furnishings become less important, and the entire room take on a feeling of activity.

Choosing the design is an important step in the selection of rugs and carpets. The design should meet the practical needs of the family and also should enhance the beauty of the room. Consider the total effect of the room. Is it to be formal or informal, traditional or contemporary? Choose a floor covering to emphasize this effect.

A solid color rug or carpet becomes part of the room's background, permitting use of another center of interest, such as the fireplace, the walls, or a furniture grouping. Warm colors advance and may make the room appear smaller. Cool colors recede, and may make the room appear larger. Cool colors are especially desirable in a room with a southerly exposure, and warm colors may be used advantageously in a cool room. Bright and intense colors may soon become tiring. Therefore, grays and neutrals are usually more suitable for long time use, especially when covering large floor areas. Extremely dark or light colors show footprints and soil more readily than do the medium ones.

Avoid a rug color that may make the other furnishings look old and drab. Choose a color that appears in other fabric furnishings, vary its shade or tint and the result will be pleasing and harmonious.

Textured floor coverings may create a subdued pattern through the use of cut and uncut and high or low pile. This adds a touch of pattern to the room without becoming a center of interest. It permits the use of a more dominant pattern in other furnishings. Footprints and soil do not show readily on a textured rug or carpet. The room may appear somewhat smaller than with the use of plain floor covering.

Tweeds also may create a slight pattern. These are informal and are best used with informal styles of furnishings. A large, more dominant pattern in other furnishings may be used with a tweed rug or carpet.

Dominant rug patterns include stripes, plaids, florals, geometrics and abstractions. These become centers of interest and therefore require other areas of the room to be plain or very subdued in pattern. Dominant patterns may soon become tiring; therefore, careful consideration should be given to their selection.

Patterns are usually more appealing if stylized rather than realistic. The size of the pattern should be in scale with the size of the room and the furniture, for example, small patterns are best in small rooms with lightly scaled furniture. Striped patterns give direction. They may make the room appear wider or longer, according to the direction of the stripes. An oddly-shaped room may be made more appealing with the proper use of pattern direction.

Come see and enjoy our exhibit at the Ulster County Fair—Aug. 17 and 18. It is all about Color and Rugs.

Final Camp Period Stresses Boating, Swimming Skills

Emphasis on swimming and boating skills highlights the program for the Aquanauts, a special waterfront unit at Camp Wendy, Ulster County Girl Scout Camp at Wallkill, during the final two-week period.

To be eligible, the girls must be Red Cross Intermediate swimmers. Counselors for this unit, all skilled waterfront people, are Monica Gustafson, exchange counselor from Sweden; Ellen Crawford, Germantown; Linda Casson, New Paltz; and Judy Bojman, Poughkeepsie.

Girls participating in this special program are Sheila Gorman, Lydia Kaufman, Marcia Mogel, Stephanie Vogel, Joyce Winne, Kingston; Beth Fisher, Glenford; Cynthia Mazur, New Paltz; Marney Sprague, Woodstock; Cindy Schoonmaker, Ellen Roberts, Highland; Lisa Backman, Louise Gillette, Ellenville; Nina and Laura Wasuta and Beth Kaplan, Baldwin; Maxine Ellenberg, Monticello; Joanne Michalovic, Hempstead.

The Foresters, 11 Cadettes, all experienced campers are living in a primitive campsite, away from the rest of the camp, clearing, building and setting up their own fireplace and kitchen and sanitary facilities, and living in Roundup tents.

Leaders Kerstin Frodin, Swedish exchange counselor and Kathy DeWitt of Kingston work with the following girls: Sharon Brooks, Highland; Dorcas Rehers, Clintondale; Regina Sheehan, Saugerties; Cathy Fisher, Glenford; Dorothy Messner, Tillson; Linda Moseman, Woodstock; Susan Wine, Kingston; Johanna Daum, Union Center; Joanne Delamarco and Patricia Krohn, Newburgh and Margaret Ernst, Monticello.

In addition to special units, Greenwood, Romany, Jungle and Pioneer Units shelter Girl Scouts during the six week camping season, offering a varied outdoor program. Girl Scouts and staff plan and carry out camp program using the patrol system. Activities include swimming, boating, hiking, cookouts, singing and campfires. An excellent nature program has been offered under the direction of volunteer consultants, Mrs. David Fox, West Hurley and Mrs. Robert Opdahl, Shokan.

Located on 64 acres of open and wooded land the troop sized units are clustered around Lake Louise. Part of a year-round outdoor program, the camp is operated by Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, an agency of the Ulster Community Chest, and tries through Girl Scout procedures to develop in the campers, resourcefulness, initiative, and self-reliance.

Piccarelli-Vitanza Wedding Plans Set

Doing The Right Thing

May She Visit Drafted Beau? Proprieties Must Be Observed

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancé was drafted. He is stationed at a camp several hundred miles from here and will not be able to get home for some time. I have a week's vacation coming up and would like to drive down to visit him. Could there be any impropriety in my going?—Betty Lou.

Dear Betty Lou: Yes, there could be considerable impropriety in your going to see your fiancé unless he can arrange for you to stay in the home of a married friend. The other solution would be to take a girl friend with you, asking your fiancé to arrange for dates for her. You would lay yourself open to all sorts of criticism if you were to stay alone in a hotel or motel.

Minister Welcome at Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Post: Our daughter, who is a Protestant, is getting married in the Catholic Church. Do we invite our Protestant minister and his wife to the wedding and reception or would that be considered an insult to him?—Mrs. R.M.

Dear Mrs. R.M.: By all means invite your minister to your daughter's wedding reception as you would any other friend. Before sending him an invitation to the ceremony, however, I would try to find out how he feels about attending a Catholic service. It is not a question of insulting him, but of relieving him of the embarrassment of refusing.

Youngsters in Wedding, Parents Invited

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know if it is proper for the bride to tell you that you and your husband are not invited to the wedding breakfast when your small children are in the wedding? I have bought gifts for the showers and paid for the children's clothes. Who will take care of these children at the reception? Was the bride right in doing this?—Wondering.

Dear Wondering: It is inexcusable that you and your husband are not invited to the wedding breakfast. Not only should you be there to take care of the children, but it would certainly seem strange to the other guests.

The clothes of the bride and groom as well as those of their attendants are described in the booklet, "Clothes of the Bridal Party." For a copy, send a dime and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Abby . . .

Boy Needs Some Sound Advice

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our 17-year-old son is going steady with a girl who has just turned 14, and he practically LIVES at her house. What do you think of parents who will allow a boy to hang around their house all day and half the night seeing their 14-year-old daughter? He says they never tell him to go home so he just stays.

I say they should kick him out at midnight. With summer here it can be a real problem. Eighteen months ago we got a 15-year-old daughter-in-law, and six months later we had a grandchild. We certainly don't want any more of that. Please help us.

CONCERNED PARENTS

DEAR CONCERNED: Don't depend on the girl's parents to discipline your son. That YOUR son should make some for your son. His father should have a serious man-to-man talk with him. (Maybe his brother can give him the benefit of his experience.) Your son needs desperately to be guided and disciplined.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was recently married and some relatives (on the groom's side) sent her a beautiful sterling silver tray with the following card:

"If your marriage lasts a year, please return this tray and we'll have it monogrammed. Love, Aunt Helen and Uncle Dave."

Would you say these people had nerve?

BRIDE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. And also experience. DEAR ABBY: My husband has been glassy-eyed ever since a certain creature half his age moved in next door. She sunbathes in a bikini in her backyard, and my middle-aged Romeo has been trimming our hedges until there is nothing left to trim. This poor soul is so there it is a wonder she can stand up.

At a recent party she staged an impromptu go-go routine and it was a case of stand back or be knocked through the wall. How can I get my husband to act his age and quit drooling over this freak? That unfortunate girl has my prayers.

ELLA ON SOUTH OLIVE ST.

DEAR ELLA: Don't waste your prayers on the "freak." Pray for a short summer with lots of rain.

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell why men feel no obligation to tell a girl when the romance is over? I have had several men give me a big rush, make promises of marriage, only to kiss me goodnight, never to return again.

A girl could end up with a nervous breakdown just wondering what happened and why. Please point out to these so-called "men" that all a girl wants to know is where she stands.

WEAKER SEX

DEAR WEAKER: There will always be the "love 'em and leave 'em" type of heel who makes promises he has no intention of keeping. But a girl need not wonder long. A silent telephone delivers about as clear cut a message as one would want.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I quite often send dimes for booklets, patterns, etc. I don't like to just drop the coins loose in the envelope... and I feel sure that taping them to the person who removes the coins and fills the request.

Finally, it dawned on me to insert the dimes between two gummed picture corners (used for putting pictures in albums) and pasting them on my request.

Sally

If you don't happen to have any picture corners, how about cutting the corners off an old envelope?

Cut one of them slightly smaller than the other so that it can be inserted in the larger one after the money is put into it, then tape it to the request.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I would like to tell you about a new thing I discovered the other day while I was laundering my wash and wear clothes.

I put the soaking wet clothes on the plastic hangers and hung them on the line. To prevent the hanger from blowing off the line, I used wire wrapper bands that come around towels.

This band twists around any shape hanger, and no matter how windy it is outside, they never blow off the clothesline.

The ties I get from my loaves of bread are also good, but they are a little too short for a thick hanger. Mrs. J. W. MacGregor

Dear Heloise:

How do I remove the hem mark left on new permanently pressed dresses?

I have already tried steam iron, wet cloth plus heat, and vinegar plus steam iron.

As all hems have to be let down for me, this is a serious problem.

F.W.O.

Can any of you gals come to the rescue and tell this lady how to get rid of those hem line marks? If so, please share the solution with all our other readers who might have the same problem. Just drop me a line in care of this paper.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

The wrapping paper off some of baby's presents make cute paper to use to line the drawers of his bureau.

Mrs. W. E. Liberge

Dear Heloise:

I used to use my hands when mixing a meat loaf.

Then one day I used my potato masher because the hamburger was still a little frozen and I just couldn't use my hands—the meat was too cold.

Now I use my potato masher all of the time for mixing meat loaf.

My hands don't get as greasy and the meat mixes better with the other ingredients.

Mary

Dear Heloise:

Old plastic-topped pill bottles, decorated with felt tipped markers and with a few buttons, needle, thread (wrapped around a little piece of cardboard) inside are great for carrying around in your purse.

Your Grandma has had hers for years and has used it often to do small emergency sewing jobs while away from home.

Buffalo Favors Samuels

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Howard J. Samuels is an overwhelming choice of Courier-Express readers for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, the newspaper reported today.

The morning publication said Samuels, a Canandaigua industrialist, received 57 per cent of the votes cast in straw balloting.

Franklin D. Roosevelt received 30 per cent, New York City Council President Frank D. O'Connor nine per cent and Nassau County Executive Eugene H. Nickerson four per cent.

The Courier-Express did not disclose the numbers of votes cast.

Saugerties Resident Weds Upstate Man

Aug. 6; Both Are Cortland Graduates

MRS. GEORGE L. SNYDER JR. (Reynolds photo)

The wedding of Miss Carol Ann Varone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Varone of 2 Edith Avenue, Saugerties and George Louis Snyder Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Snyder Sr. of Leonardville, was held 2 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 6, at St. Mary of the Snow Church, Saugerties.

The Rev. Joseph Hamilton, assistant pastor officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Charles Dickman was organist. White gladioli and altar vases of mums and carnations decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white organza gown of formal length with short sleeves, fitted bodice, bell skirt and chapel train trimmed with Alencon lace and seed pearls. Her headpiece was a rose of silk organza with bouffant silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade of white chrysanthemums with white orchid.

Her sister, Miss Bonnie Varone was maid of honor in a gown of saki turquoise and white. She carried a bouquet of turquoise and white carnations with yellow roses.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Patricia Altamuro of Chappaqua, Virginia Rossi of Yonkers and Miss Nancy Wallrabe of Brooklyn. They wore formal gowns of turquoise and white carnations.

Best man was Henry Collins of Cassville. Ushers were John Nutt of Leonardville, cousin of the bridegroom, Richard Snyder of Saugerties and A. Mallanda of Red Hook.

A reception for 100 guests was held after the ceremony at the Flamingo Restaurant.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda the couple will reside in Cooperstown. For traveling the bride wore a three piece tailored blue suit.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Snyder will be physical education instructors at Oneonta in September. Both graduated from the State University College at Cortland in June.

Saugerties Miss Saugerties Heading Fashion Show at Forsyth

Pamela Sue Davis, who wears the Miss Saugerties 1966 crown, has accepted an invitation to participate in the Ulster County Fair, Forsyth Park, Kingston, this coming Wednesday evening.

The lovely beauty queen, who recently won a talent award in the Miss New York State Pageant at Olean, will give the commentary for the 4-H Club fashion show at the fair.

She will also be interviewed by a local radio station during the first night of the two-day fair, which has been overhauled this year to feature old fashioned flavor. Her appearance Wednesday is slated for 7 p. m.

The fact that the reigning beauty queen of Saugerties will be present should be reason enough for most residents of the community to journey to the fair. Her contribution to the evening's entertainment should be interesting since she is an able and witty commentator. Other attractions at the fair will include a sailboat race for youngsters, square dancing, concerts by area barbershop quartets, agricultural exhibits, a puppet show and homegrown and homemade refreshments of all types.

New Pupils Asked To Register for School Opening

Pupils new to the Saugerties Central School District should register in preparation for the opening of school if they have not previously registered. According to Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, the Morse, Main Street, Mr. Marion and Glascio Elementary schools will be open on weekdays between the hours of 8:30 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. The Junior and Senior High School offices are also open during the same hours.

Final plans have been completed for the annual Summer Bazaar of St. Mary of the Snow Church which is to be held on the church grounds, Cedar Street, Aug. 18, 19 and 20. There will be many fine prizes as well as movies for the children.

Russell O'Dea, general chairman, has appointed the following as committee chairman: Joseph DiDomenico, Edward M. Flanagan, Bob Schnell, Bud Smith, Eleanor Naccarato, Carl Cook, Anne Karashay, Betty Peters, Bud Turk, Gilda Lannone, Geraldine Martin and Pearl Christiana. Also, Karl J. Pietkiewicz, Frank Meyer, Fred Hull, Dominic Crane, Al Hopf, Joan Bannen, Helen Keeley, Emily Spada, Walt Neely, Charles Meiswinkel, Beverly Lorenz, Bill McCormick and Shirley Carpenter.

Will Open Adirondack Horse Trails Sept. 1

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Three horse trails, winding for nearly 50 miles through the Adirondacks, will open for public use Sept. 1, says the State Conservation Department.

The department announced Friday that the trails were developed as part of a program to expand use of the forest preserve.

The longest of the trails, 32 miles, runs through the Cold River region of southern Franklin County. The others are in the Saranac Lake and Lake Placid areas.

Shelter for horsemen and their mounts will be provided along the trails, the department said.

Urge County Farmers To Join ACP Program

Joseph Sauer, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced today that farmers in Ulster County may now enroll in the ACP Program for practices they intend to carry out this fall. Enrollment must be made by Sept. 15 and all projects completed by the end of the year.

For those who expect to do liming, a soil test report must accompany their request. Any one interested in liming, ponds, ditching, should stop at the County ASCS Office, 54 John Street, or enrollment forms can be mailed upon request. All requests will be held until Sept. 15 deadline and approvals issued after that time.

Farmers who are interested are urged to enroll promptly.

Lending Program Gives Funds for Low Pay Families

Over 244 families in New York State found the means to start working their way up from the poverty income level through family Economic Opportunity loans during fiscal 1966, Barthly L. Beach, Farmers Home Administration state director, said today.

Beach reported on progress of a lending program administered by the USDA Farmers Home Administration for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Aids Rural Families

The past fiscal year saw 244 loans totaling $455,300 made to rural families in the lowest income group to provide tools, supplies and working space they need in order to earn a better living.

Since the program began in January 1965, loans totaling $925,520 have been made to over 470 families throughout New York.

Beach said the Economic Opportunity borrowers are following the more than 60 different kinds of non-agricultural enterprises, in addition to farming, as a result of the helping hand extended them through the program. Loans average $2,000 a family, with a maximum of $2,500 in effect.

"These are loans to families at the bottom of the economic ladder. Nationwide more than half of them existing on less than $1,500 a year for family living expenses," Beach said.

"The borrowers are rural people who have been isolated in poverty, with nowhere to look except to their own capacity for self-employment."

"Their most common handicap has been lack of money or credit to equip themselves for the more profitable work they might do if they had the tools."

"Economic Opportunity loans help them overcome this obstacle. The loans stake them to the things they need for a profitable farming enterprise or to increase their income by following a trade or performing a service needed in their home communities."

"The plan is working. The Rural Economic Opportunity borrowers are working their way forward and they are paying back their loans."

Nation-wide first studies of the results realized by borrowers who have had their loans approximately one year showed gains in gross family income averaging $2,800 a year for families starting non-agricultural enterprises and $800 a year for families using Economic Opportunity loans to improve their methods of farming.

The year-old loans were being paid back, on the average, 8 per cent faster than scheduled.

The Office of Economic Opportunity has delegated loan-making under the program to the Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration, which has a network of 1,600 offices throughout the United States to serve rural people lacking other sources of credit for farming, housing and small enterprises to boost substandard family incomes.

2 Women Are Injured In Vehicle Mishaps

Two early morning accidents in Greene County injured two women, sending one to Greene County Memorial Hospital with numerous lacerations of the face and body.

The more serious accident involved Mrs. Betty Parks, 46, of Greenville Center, whose convertible went out of control on Route 81 near Greenville Center at 2:15 a. m. Mrs. Parks was going east on 81 when she lost control of the car which flipped over and hit a tree. She was reported in fair condition at Greene County Memorial.

The other accident occurred at 3:30 a. m. on Route 23 near Leeds, and involved Miss Dorothy Schieren, 19, of Leeds.

Crash on Wall Street

A rear-end collision in front of 235 Wall Street, Friday afternoon resulted in complaints of back and neck injuries by two Kingston women.

According to police a 1958 sedan driven by Mrs. Agnes Brown, 30 Pine Street was struck in the rear while traveling on Wall Street towards Main Street by a car driven by James Naparano, 23, of 368 Liberty Street, Newburgh.

A passenger in the Brown car, Mrs. Elizabeth Policastro of 11 Henry Street, complained of neck and back injuries.

Crash Kills Woman

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Bridget Finnerty, about 50, of West Orange, N. J., was killed Friday when the automobile in which she was a passenger plunged through a guard rail on Route 81 and fell onto Route 11, four miles north of here.

Van Bramer Will Attend Parley For Candidates

Glenn C. Van Bramer, Democratic candidate for the Constitutional Convention from Dutchess and Ulster Counties, today announced that he would attend a statewide conference of Democratic candidates for the Constitutional Convention in Syracuse, Aug. 23 and 24.

Professor Jack Weinstein of the Columbia University Law Faculty will chair the meeting. Professor Weinstein was recently appointed to direct the Democratic state campaign for the Convention. He is a former member of the Temporary State Commission on the Revision and Simplification of the Constitution and himself a candidate from Nassau County.

Van Bramer said that the meeting would be keyed to legislative issues, preparation of position papers, and campaign techniques. "I hope," he said, "that one of the results of this conference will be the determination on the part of the Democratic Party to issue a platform for Constitutional Candidates so the voters can choose their delegates based on issues rather than guesswork." He pointed out that the election of delegates to the convention is probably the "most important election in the State's recent history" and pledged to do all in his power to guarantee the voters an opportunity to know not only who they should vote for but why.

Two Are Injured In 209 Collision

A Stone Ridge husband and wife were injured as a result of an accident early Friday evening in the town of Marletown off Route 209.

Involved in the three-car accident were William Paetow, 50, of High Falls, Edward Coles, 44, of Stone Ridge, and Chester Meyers, 65, of 120 Grant Street.

According to State Police the three vehicles were all headed north with Paetow car in the lead and the Meyers car in the rear. An unknown vehicle pulled out of Marcot Road into 209 in the path of the Paetow car which braked to avoid a collision. The Coles car also slowed down and was hit in the rear by the Meyers car and subsequently struck the Paetow car.

Injured were Coles with head and back injuries and Mrs. Coles with a lacerated forehead from hitting the windshield. Trooper John McMickle investigated. There were no charges.

Pirates Keep Two-Game Lead With 14-11 Win

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays got a step closer, Art Shamsky got a 43rd of a record and Bob Bailey got a bucket of water in his face.

Each earned their rewards Friday night by hitting significant home runs as the hectic National League pennant race continued.

Mays' home run carried second-place San Francisco and Gaylord Perry past Houston 14-0 while Bailey's pair and Shamsky's trio helped Pittsburgh and Cincinnati tie a major-league record of 11 homers in one game. The first-place Pirates won the 13-inning game 14-11 and maintained their two-game lead over the Giants.

Two Away From Fox

The homer for Mays was his 27th of the season and 532nd of his career, moving him to within two of Jimmy Fox, whose 534 is second on the all-time list. After Mays passes Fox, only Babe Ruth and his 714 remain.

Shamsky, who entered the Cincinnati lineup in the eighth, most likely never will reach those heights, but he did gain a share of a modern National League home-run record.

By hitting three homers in three times at bat — they came within four innings — Shamsky joined 35 other NL players who hit three consecutive homers 42 previous times.

Bailey hit only two homers, but he added a two-run double in the 11th that gave the Pirates a temporary 11-9 lead. That was before Shamsky's third homer tied the game for the fourth and last time.

For his night's work in the four-hour, 22-minute affair, Bailey was rewarded in the jubilant Pirate clubhouse with a bucket of water thrown in his face and a stream of beer poured over his head.

In the other NL games Chicago edged Los Angeles 2-1 and New York defeated St. Louis 6-2.

The Pirates finally won the marathon with three runs in the 13th, the first two on Manny Mota's bases-loaded single.

Shamsky drove in the Reds' last five runs with his homers in the eighth, 10th and 11th. The first put Cincinnati ahead 8-7, the second tied the game 9-9 and the third 11-11.

Another for Lynch

Jerry Lynch extended his major league career pinch-hit record with his 18th that tied the game 8-8 in the ninth, and Willie Stargell's homer gave the Pirates a 9-8 lead in the 10th. Jesse Gonder and Roberto Clemente added to Pittsburgh's six-homer barrage while Deron Johnson and Pete Rose also connected for the Reds.

Mays hit his homer leading off the ninth inning of a previously scoreless contest. The blow was only the fourth hit off Houston's Mike Cuellar.

Perry stopped the Astros on three hits, gaining his 18th victory against two defeats. Los Angeles' Sandy Koufax is the only other pitcher in the majors with 18 victories.

Don Sutton and Los Angeles were headed for a 1-0 victory until the ninth when the Cubs rallied for two runs on singles by Glenn Beckert and George Altman sandwiches around Ron Santo's double. Chicago's Ken Holtzman allowed just five hits but let in the Dodgers' run in the first with a wild pitch.

Jack Fisher gave up 12 hits but rode a five-run New York outburst in the third inning to a victory over St. Louis. Larry Elliot doubled home two runs in the third while singles by Al Luplow and Gerry Grote brought in two more.

PITTSBURGH (NEA)—You can't do it every day. But the Pittsburgh Pirates know that if they stick with 'em and hang in there, probably they'll get 'em next time.

Can't-do-it-every-day, stick-with-'em, hang-in-there and get-'em-next-time are the verbal pats on the back the Pirates award one another to alleviate gloom.

Thus pitcher Steve Blass, who has lost four games this season and has not gone the distance in 20 starts, sums up his record as "four stick-with-'ems and 20 straight can't-do-it-every-days."

First baseman Donn Clendenon leads the Pirates in get-'em-next-times with 95. "One for each strikeout," he says.

A hard line drive into the waiting hands of an infielder or outfielder is only a time at bat in the box score, but it merits a fervent hang-in-there.

Blass and Clendenon belong to the Black Maxers, hence the bookkeeping. The Black Maxers are an in-group among the Pirates and to maintain his membership each of the Maxers must get at least one citation a week.

It is all part of the high jinks the Pirates are going in for this year—a burlesque not only on baseball clichés but on a current motion picture called "The Blue Max," itself an unconscious burlesque on every bad World War I movie Hollywood ever made.

As relief pitcher Pete Mikkelsen describes the movie, which the Black Maxers saw in Chi-

Casper's 138 Paces Tourney

By HERSHEL NISENSEN

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Remember the name Billy Casper. He's the two-time U.S. Open champion who's won four tournaments on the current tour and is leading in his bid for a fifth.

Also remember the name of Milton Daniel (Babe) Lichardus. You may never hear it again.

These two, along with bespectacled Mason Rudolph, held the top three spots today as the $100,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic went into its third round.

Casper and Rudolph are familiar golfing names but it was Lichardus, a 37-year-old, beetle-browed local product, who had veteran golfers stumped trying to recall the last time a club won a tour event.

The Babe, assistant pro at the Hollywood Golf Club in Deal on the Jersey shore, fired a 68 Friday for a two-day total of 139, one stroke better than Casper, who also had a 68, and tied with Rudolph, who carded a 70.

Two strokes back at 140 was Canada's George Knudson while Gary Player, Billy Martindale, Charles Coody and Bob Zimmerman all had 141 over the 7,055-yard, par 72 Upper Montclair Country Club course. The low 70 and ties made today's third round.

Lichardus, facing newsmen in the same chair occupied earlier by Casper, played Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, apologized "for keeping you boys here this late...but this was my career round."

Lichardus birdied five of the first 11 holes Friday, had his only two bogeys at 14 and 15 but recovered with another birdie on 16. His bid for a birdie on 18 and a share of the lead failed when a 15-foot putt rimmed the right side of the cup.

Still in the running were Nicklaus and Palmer, with 143 and 144 respectively.

Pittsfield Captures Two From York Nine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsfield Red Sox ended York's six-game Eastern League winning streak Friday night, defeating the White Roses twice, 3-2, 9-4.

In other games Williamsport gained more ground, defeating Waterbury 6-1, while league-leading Elmira was defeated by Pawtucket 5-3.

Pittsfield's John Thibodeau pitched a four-hitter in the first game victory as he raised his record to 10-8. An error, singles by Chris Coletta and Carmen Fanzone and Bob Guindon's double in the first inning accounted for all the Red Sox runs.

The Red Sox came up with a five-run sixth inning to put away the second game. Two walks, a hit batsman and singles by Fanzone, Coletta, Al Montreuil and winning pitcher Jerry Hudgins accounted for those runs. Hudgins is now 12-9.

Lloyd Flodin hit two doubles and drove in three runs to power Williamsport's victory. Jerry Hinsley, who worked the first seven innings, got the victory, his third in seven decisions.

Loser Bill Wade is now 1-8. The Indians got away to a three-run first inning lead and were never headed in their victory over the Pioneers.

Richie Scheinblum and Frank Baker each drove in a pair of runs for the Indians.

George Woodson, who pitched the first six and a third innings, was the winner and is now 6-2.

cago one day. "It's about dog-fights during World War I. The Blue Max was a German medal, only there was no medal. The British planes he got a Blue Max from the Kaiser or whoever he was. One guy in the story wanted that more than anything. He wanted a Blue Max."

Steve Blass wanted enough Blue Maxes to start a Blue Max chapter on the Pirates and he toured Chicago's Loop in a taxicab, rummaging through novelty stores. He had to settle for 12 black surfer's medals and the would-be Blue Maxers changed their color scheme.

Surfer's medals are replicas, actually, of the German Iron Cross, a military award that goes back to 1813, when William of Prussia conceived it. During every year since the Germans have revived the Iron Cross. The Nazis revived it in World War II, replacing William of Prussia's cross with a swastika. For that reason surfer's medals arouse a certain amount of hostility.

However, even in World War II the award was for achievement on the battlefield, and a West German consul stationed in this country has said, "We think of the Iron Cross not as the Iron Cross of the terrible Nazi period but as being from the rest of German history, which contains 200 years of culture."

The Black Maxers pretend to no history of culture at all but are representative of the Pirates' flakiness. Manager Harry Walker, a Bronze Star winner in World War II, the captured a whole truckload of Germans) approves.

Killer Killebrew Still Sizzling

His 25th Homer Paces Minnesota To 6-2 Triumph

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

The ball is jumping off Harmon Killebrew's bat again and that could mean the Minnesota Twins are ready to take charge of the three-way tussle for fourth place in the American League.

Killebrew smashed a two-run homer, his third in as many games and 25th of the season, triggering Minnesota's 6-2 victory over Kansas City Friday night.

The shot left him nine short of Frank Robinson's league-leading 34 but both Killebrew and Manager Sam Mele believe the Twins' slugger can still win his fourth home-run crown in five years.

"Harmon is looking very confident at the plate," Mele said. "When he's hitting this well and is this confident, the home runs always seem to come for him."

Slipped to 25

Killebrew led the American League in homers for three straight seasons, belting 48 in 1962, 45 in 1963 and 49 in 1964. His output slipped to 25 last year when he missed seven weeks with a dislocated left elbow. Tony Conigliaro won the 1965 crown with 32 homers.

"I feel like I'm swinging the bat better than I have all season," Killebrew said. "I've hit the ball good at times this year, but the hits didn't fall in like they are now."

Killebrew has had 18 hits in 51 trips to the plate in the last two weeks, a .373 pace that has raised his season's average 14 points to .280.

His two-run clout keyed Minnesota's three-run first inning against Kansas City's Paul Lindblad. The victory kept the twins in a fourth place tie with Chicago which nipped California 1-0, dropping the Angels one game back of Minnesota and the White Sox.

In other American League games, Cleveland edged New York 3-2, Boston battered Detroit 13-9, and Baltimore split a doubleheader with Washington, winning the first game 2-1 and dropping the second 4-1.

6th for Perry

Killebrew's homer helped Jim Perry to the early lead. Perry allowed just five hits, winning his sixth game in 11 decisions.

Two wild pitches by Dean Chance gave Chicago its only stand up to beat California.

Pete Ward opened the fifth with a single and moved around to third on an infield out and a wild pitch.

Then, after Chance walked,

Tigers Gain 11-3 Win For Ulster LL Honors

Nytralite Tigers used a pair of big innings to carry them to an 11-3 win over the Ulster Businessmen Indians and the championship of the Town of Ulster Little League.

Starter George Fatum and relief chucker Mike Palladino divided mound duties for the champs. They gave up six hits. Starter Harold Johnson lost it.

Palladino, Steve Vankleek,

John, Ward raced home as the fourth ball to Don Buford went wild.

It was the eighth straight victory for the streaking White Sox and John, who pitched a four-hitter, ran his record to 11-6.

The Red Sox, who had scored in the last five innings of Thursday night's 13-3 romp over Cleveland, scored in every inning except the fourth against the Tigers.

Carl Yastrzemski keyed Boston's attack with four straight hits, scoring three times and driving in two runs, as every Red Sox starter except the pitcher hit safely.

Robinson's 34th homer beat

Washington in the first game giving Moe Drabowsky the victory in his first start after 29 relief appearances this season.

Drabowsky, who got the assignment because of injuries to three Oriole starters, allowed only four hits before tiring in the ninth. Eddie Fisher came on to get the last out.

Homers by Ken Harrelson, Fred Valentine and Jim King led the Senators to the nightcap victory.

Cleveland's Gary Bell won his 13th game, beating the Yankees with help from Bob Allen and Luis Tiant in the last two innings. Leon Wagner homered for the Indians.

Toledo Is Beaten 8th Straight Time

By The Associated Press
Somebody seems to have sprung a trap door under Toledo's Mud Hens. If they don't win a game soon, the Hens may set some sort of record for rapidity of descent in the International League standings.

Manager Len Babe says he's "still loose and hopeful," but the sad fact is that in the last week the Mud Hens have plummeted from three games out of first place to three games out of seventh.

When Richmond beat Toledo 4-2 Friday night, it was the eighth consecutive loss for the Mud Hens since Aug. 5. And in the last five of those defeats they've scored a grand total of just eight runs.

Other Friday games saw resurgent Columbus maintain its one-game lead over Rochester by nudging Jacksonville, 2-1, while Rochester was clipping Buffalo, 6-2. Third-place Toronto stayed four games back of the Jets by noosing out Syracuse, 5-4. Sandy Alomar's two-run homer in the ninth inning carried Richmond—which had lost five in a row—past Toledo and cost the Mud Hens a chance to regain fourth place from Buffalo. But the game was much more costly to the Braves, who are only 1½ games out of the first division.

Jim Beauchamp, a .317 batter who led the league in home runs with 25 and in RBI's with 78, suffered a broken wrist in a first-inning collision with Toledo's Wayne Comer and will be lost for the rest of the season.

Pitcher John Gelnar singled home a fifth-inning run that proved decisive and also twirled a six-hitter for Columbus as the Jets held on to first place by capturing their fifth straight game.

Jim Russin's 10th inning sacrifice fly plated the run that enabled Toronto to edge Syracuse for Glen Cisco's ninth pitching victory against four defeats. Toronto catcher Owen Johnson was cut on the head and hospitalized when hit by the back of a bat in the fifth inning.

Mike Epstein powered Rochester past Buffalo with a bases-loaded double and a single good for four runs-batted-in. Right-hander Ed Barnowski notched his 13th victory for the Red Wings although Paul Knechtges pitched the last three innings in relief.

Packers Stop Sayers But Bears Win, 13-10

By KEN HARTNETT
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Master mentor Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers may have found a way to stop Chicago's Gale Sayers. Now all Lombardi has to do is figure out how to stop Joe Marconi.

Sayers was held to only two yards rushing in the first half of Friday night's 13-10 Bear exhibition victory over the National Football League champions.

But in the second half, Sayers began finding daylight thanks to Marconi.

"They were keying on me (in the first half). Marconi did a helluva job making it easier for Jon Arnett and me to run," said Sayers who came back to set up one touchdown and score another in the decisive third period.

Sayers finished the night with 58 yards rushing while Marconi picked up 61. The 11-year veteran from West Virginia also gained 44 yards on the receiving end of Rudy Bukich's passes.

"Somebody fell asleep on our pass defense on Marconi in the second half," said Lombardi. "I'm not going to say who it was."

But what happened may have been what Coach George Halas of the Bears predicted would happen this season as opposing teams try to stop Sayers.

"They'll rig special defenses for him. What we are working on is aimed at taking advantage of those special defenses. When you concentrate too much on one man, you leave yourself more vulnerable," Halas said earlier this week.

2nd Half Comeback
Down 3-0 at halftime and able to bring the ball into Green Bay territory for only two plays in the first 30 minutes, the Bears caught fire after intermission.

Mike McTigue Dies, Was Boxing Champion

NEW YORK (AP)—Mike McTigue, the Irishman who won the world light-heavyweight boxing championship from Battling Siki in Dublin on St. Patrick's Day in 1923, died Friday in Queens General Hospital after a long illness. He was 73.

A native of County Clare, Ireland, McTigue came to the United States after his victory over Siki and retained his title with a draw against Young Stribling in Columbus, Ga.

He lost the title on a decision to Paul Berlenbach in Yankee Stadium in 1925.

McTigue fought from 1914 through 1930. In 141 bouts he won 81, including 57 by knockouts, and lost 22. He fought six draws and 36 no decision bouts.

Many Are Slaughtered

Continent Is Battling Cattle, Sheep Disease

LONDON (AP)—Britain and other European countries are waging a war costing millions against the mysterious plague of foot-and-mouth disease striking cattle and sheep.

The oldest herd of pedigreed Ayrshires in England—that of Eshott, founded 700 years ago—is threatened. Mass slaughtering has resulted, but some countries are trying other approaches to check the spread of the disease.

Here is a nation-by-nation roundup:

About Third Affected

Soviet Union—First reported in 1965, the disease spread to most parts of European Russia. By unofficial estimates as many as a third of 87 million Soviet cattle were affected by last spring. There have been no official figures on losses.

West Germany—No figures on nationwide losses are available but estimates run into millions of dollars. In Bavaria, one of the states hardest hit, the epidemic broke out in December 1965 and since then 2,000 cattle and 9,000 pigs have been slaughtered. In March this year a blanket inoculation program was started.

German control technique is to slaughter whenever disease is detected. A "cordon sanitaire" is set up around the area, all cattle in it are inoculated and barred from shipment outside the area.

No transport of cattle into or through the area is permitted. Agricultural officials say the current virus appears more active than in the past and is particularly difficult to control.

Denmark—An outbreak this spring hit 1,000 cattle and 2,000 pigs, all were slaughtered.

Italy—The disease is taken as practically a way of life by Italians. Slaughtering is virtually unheard of. Inoculation is the most widely used counterattack but little is done to quarantine stock or prevent movement. Agricultural experts say millions of dollars are lost annually.

Checked in Belgium

Belgium—Strict inspection of imports of cattle is enforced. Outbreaks have been checked but about 30 cases were reported from September 1965 until April 1966.

Hungary—Officially declared lowing an outbreak in August 1964, to midsummer 1965. Spain—No outbreaks since the end of 1965, when an estimated 800,000 animals were affected and economic losses ran into millions.

France—Officials say the country is free of foot-and-mouth disease. Any animal even suspected of being infected is promptly killed.

Held on Forgery Count

Peking to Ease Up on Purge as Defections Gain

TOKYO (AP)—Confronted by spreading defections in Asia's Communist camp, the Chinese Reds indicated today they are easing their purge on the home front.

The official Peking People's Daily said in an editorial that the purge sweeping the mainland is an ideological political struggle and warned that it must not be resolved by force.

Getting Out of Hand

Moral persuasion based on superior virtue would be most effective in exposing the "ugly features of the bourgeois," the paper said.

The editorial apparently reflected a feeling among Peking's leaders that the purge has been getting out of hand. Unconfirmed reports from the Chinese capital said Premier Chou En-lai in a recent address at Peking University emphasized the need for greater leniency toward dissidents.

The appeal for a softer line appeared in the People's Daily one day after the North Korean Communist party—once a staunch supporter of Peking—announced that it is taking an independent course.

The announcement coincided with Peking's attacks on the Japanese Communist party which until recently had also backed the Chinese international line.

Virtually Isolated

With the virtual elimination of the Indonesian Communist party by the military regime in Jakarta and North Viet Nam's tendency to walk a middle course between the Chinese and Soviets, the Peking party finds itself and its blood-and-violence policies virtually isolated in Asia.

The Indian Communists long ago turned away from Peking, leaving only splinter groups in Malaysia and Australia still in the Chinese camp.

The North Koreans were critical of the Soviets particularly for failure to give greater support to the Vietnamese Communists, but their sharpest barbs were against China's refusal to admit Moscow to a common front.

Questions Peking Stand

The Pyongyang independence manifesto questioned China's insistence that it is the only correct interpreter of communism.

Two top Chinese officials—Peace Committee Chairman Kuo Mo-Jo and Liu Ning-Yi, chairman of the All-China Federation of Trade Unions—loosed a blast Friday night against the Japanese Communist leadership of the 12th A-Bomb conference. They accused the Japanese Reds of "prating about united action" with Russia.

Accused of Assault

A Kingston man is in the Ulster County Jail today as a result of a warrant on a third degree assault charge issued by Justice of the Peace Calvin Cody of Saugerties Friday.

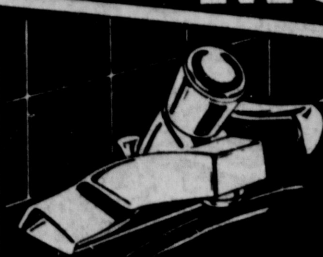

Alfred Bell, 35, of 13 Spruce Street, was arrested by Trooper Forshee and city police Officer Lewis Keator on complaint of Roberta McMillan of Hasbrouck Avenue after an alleged incident near Schoenag's in Saugerties. Bell was committed to the county jail in lieu of bail and scheduled for hearing on the charges Tuesday.

Report Stolen Car

A repossessed car was stolen from the DiMico Motors Inc. parking lot early this morning. The car, a 1964 hardtop, had been parked at DiMico's by John VanDerhoff, Pells Road, Rhinebeck, a representative of the Universal Credit Corporation.

Galley-Type Kitchen Copies Efficient Shipboard Style

By JACK McEENEY

When you finally get the home of your dreams you want it to look as if it belonged — as if it grew on the spot where it stands. You may recognize this wonderful quality in Associated Architects' newest home plan, "The Sturges".

This is a ranch-type home, a design of deserved popularity. What makes this one special, however, is that it is designed to "hug the ground". And once you have a bit of shrubbery around the house, you'll have your home that almost grew where it stands.

Just to look at the practical side, let's snoop about the kitchen first. Counters and appliances are galley designed, like the efficient kitchens aboard ships, where space really counts. And the dining room is full-sized to accommodate your friends and family in comfort. It's a cheerful room, lighted by a big double window. Because the dining room joins the living room, there is the effect of one big room sweeping across the house. You'll know what I mean when you see that the living room comes to 12 by 18 feet.

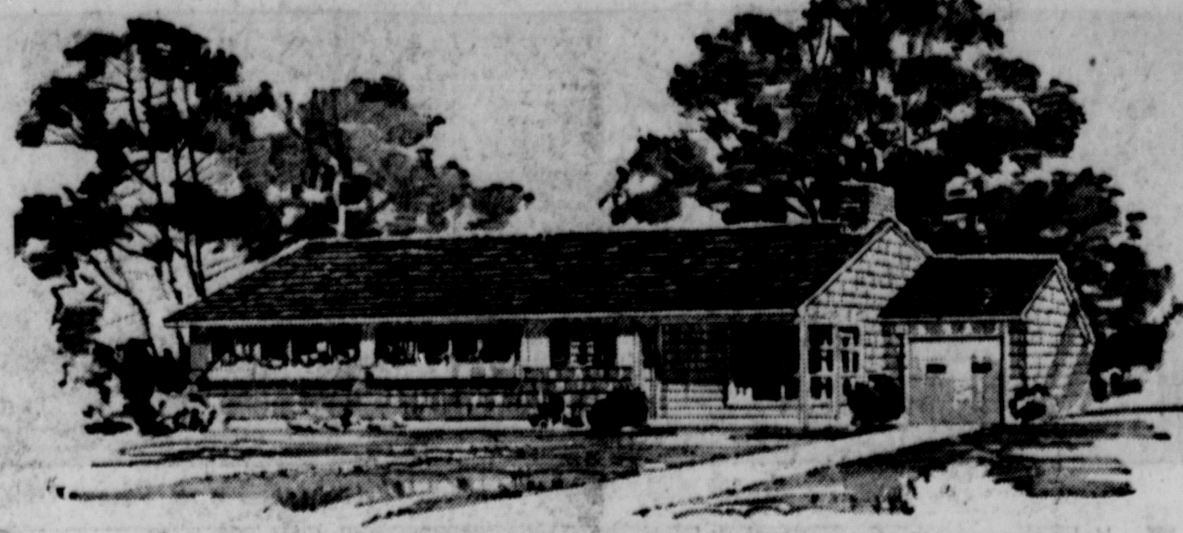

The living room stands on its own merits, apart from size. Among its features are a corner fireplace, literally radiating warmth and a corner window wall.

"The Sturges" has three good sized bedrooms, all with wardrobes rather than closets. So you see that this is one home where storage is no problem. The master bedroom is 11 by 13 1/2 feet. The bath is convenient to all three bedrooms, as well as the rest of the house.

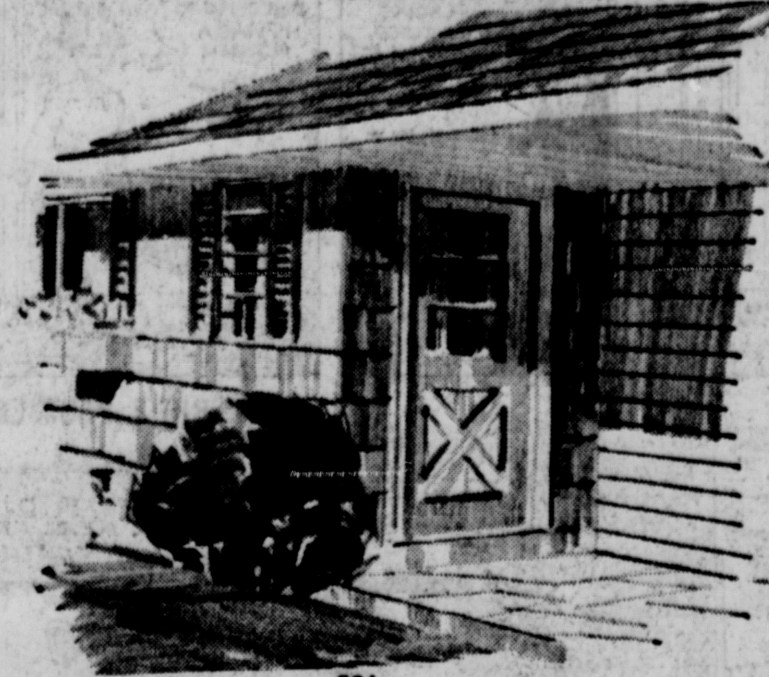

To add to the usefulness and value of "The Sturges", there is a full garage with rear entrance and a covered porch sheltering the front entrance. But I think you'll be interested in seeing all of the features of this home. To do so, you can order the plans (cost is moderate) by using the accompanying coupon. Be sure to mark if you want drawings with basement or without.

Your order for blueprints will bring you at no extra charge a set of specifications to help protect your investment.

If you prefer concrete block or brick veneer (rather than the wood siding shown in the artist's sketch) your plans show how these appealing materials may be substituted.

Color Camouflage

Here's a coordinating trick to play with that one "eye-sore" in an otherwise perfectly furnished room. You simply match it to your walls with left-over enamel from a woodwork make-over. This bit of underhanded paint-manship will camouflage that sore thumb, blend it into its surroundings, giving your room a "total look" of loveliness.

Painting Blocks

Solvent-thinned rubber base paints are recommended for painting cinder or slag blocks. Acidity, iron content and alkalinity must all be considered, and the rubber base paints are the best insurance against future staining.

Business Week in Review

By JACK LEFLER

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Johnson administration's price and wage guidelines came under intense scrutiny during the week.

The question: Are they dead or can they be revitalized by revision?

The examination occurred in the wake of a steel price increase and a rejected government proposal to settle the month-long Machinists Union strike against five airlines.

Both Exceed Guidelines

Both the steel price increase and the proposed strike settlement exceeded the guidelines.

The guidelines call for prices to be stable when wage increases remain within the bounds of the national average trend of improvement in productivity, or output per man-hour, which the President's Council of Economic Advisers places at 3.2 per cent a year.

The crumbling of anti-inflation barriers brought expressions of concern from administration officials, but they didn't seem to have any specific new solutions.

Gardner Ackley, the President's chief economic adviser, said the price and wage guideline policy "has recently suffered some stunning defeats."

He described as even more disappointing the lack of recognition by labor and management that the nation must have a policy for over-all price stability "if we are to maintain full employment and the full measure of wage and profit incomes."

Try to Minimize Defeat

Administration officials tried to minimize the extent of their steel price defeat and hinted that a revamping of the wage guidelines may be under consideration.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler commented that the price increase covers only "a very small fraction" of steel production, and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor said the boost was "within bounds" and justified by wage increases, low profits and the need to build more capacity to compete with imports.

Connor conceded that the steel price rise was a "significant" change but said it "isn't one that is going to be disastrous." He added it was "regrettable" that the companies didn't discuss the increases with government officials in advance, but he urged that such individual situations as the steel development shouldn't be over-emphasized, asserting that "Our economy is in a healthy situation and we can look forward to a healthy growth."

Fowler said the question of whether 3.2 per cent is still the "proper figure" or "even whether there is one magic number for all industries" is under review.

Won't Scrap Concept

He said the concept isn't about to be scrapped altogether and contended "some policy that embodies the guidelines is going to have to be a part of the 'general economic scheme of things.'"

President Johnson told a news conference that his labor-management advisory committee has "given some thought to other approaches" to the guide lines.

"I don't know that there will be anything that will come out of that," he said. "I don't want to build it up, but I do say that they are constantly assessing it, as is the administration every day."

Johnson added that "until we find something better we will continue to follow" the present guidelines.

Jobless Rate Dips

The Labor Department reported that the unemployment rate dipped to 3.9 per cent of the labor force in mid-July from 4 per cent a month earlier.

Total unemployment declined by 645,000 from mid-June to 3,225,000. Total employment climbed by 680,000 to a record 76,411,000.

Retail sales in July rose to $25,507,000,000, up 1 per cent from June and 8 per cent from a year earlier, the Commerce Department reported.

Steel production rose during the week to 2,454,000 tons from 2,413,000 tons the previous week. It was the first increase in six weeks.

A room in Carlsbad Caverns, N. M., has a ceiling about 22 stories high. The floor is as big as 14 football fields.

FULL WEEK'S LISTINGS OF TV PROGRAMS — AUGUST 14th THRU AUGUST 20th

Battery Charged For New Series

BY BILL BYERS

NEW YORK — If Sandy Baron weren't a comedian he would probably have been a telephone pole . . . or a Brooklyn version of the Hoover Dam . . . or a waffle iron . . . or a pinball machine.

"I dig anything that's electric," he will say. "Man, to light up an audience, to really turn them on is a gas!"

Up to now, the 29-year-old dynamo has been operating his battery mainly in night clubs. This coming season, he will have the opportunity to see how much excitement he can generate as co-star of a new NBC-TV comedy series, Hey Landlord.

He and Will Hutchins of Sugarfoot fame portray young bachelors on the make in New York.

"We have, as the script says, from two weeks to five to find ourselves—and if we don't we'll be bums," says Sandy all aglow.

"How can the show miss as a hit? We've got the same writers (Jerry Belson and Garry Marshall) they had on The Dick Van Dyke Show. It should be intelligent insanity, shouldn't it?"

SANDY BARON

Sandy has been looking for this break in television for a long time. He was "discovered" this season on Broadway in the comedy, Generation.

"I like to think of myself as a quote-actor-unquote," he says. "I don't like to think of myself as spending the rest of my life telling one line jokes in a night club."

He also doesn't like to think of himself as a "square," although he is more of a swinger in his talk than he is in real life. Happily married for three years to someone he says is the most beautiful girl in the world (Geraldine, a fashion model), his homelife has all the quiet domestic bliss of a banker's.

"But to do really good things in life, you've got to fool that banker cat to give you the bread to make your idea better and more beautiful," he will say, sinking back into hip chatter.

Translated, this means Sandy believes it takes a lot of bread (money) from the bank to provide the electricity for a good show.

Hey, Landlord, he is convinced, has the bread to make it shine.

Merv Griffin Show Premieres Aug. 29, Douglas Moves

"The Merv Griffin Show" premieres Monday, August 29, over WAST, Channel 13. The 90 minute program will be seen from 9:30 to 11:00 a. m. Monday through Friday. "The Mike Douglas Show," formerly seen in this time period, moves to the new time of 4:30 to 6:00 p. m. on the same date.

Ginger Rogers and David Burns, currently starring on Broadway in "Hello Dolly," Carroll Baker, singer Giselle McKensie, pianist Erroll Garner, and Comedian Morty Gunty are just a few of the scheduled guests during the first week of "The Merv Griffin Show" on WAST.

Some Colonial American towns offered free land or tax exemption to anyone who would set up and manage a tavern.

CICELY TYSON AND SAMMY DAVIS JR.

Meet Cicely Tyson

She Won't Dance, Don't Ask Her

BY BILL BYERS

NEW YORK—Cicely Tyson is a Negro actress who wants to make it big without singing and dancing.

She doesn't want to be another Lena Horne or a Diahann Carroll; or an Ethel Waters or a Marian Anderson or a Leslie Uggams or a Pearl Bailey or an Eartha Kitt.

But she does want to be a star. "Do you realize," she said, "there never has been a Negro actress in this country who has become successful on just her acting talents. Their main income has always come from another field, like singing."

A serious performer, she was hailed for her role in "The Blacks" and "In White America" before she was featured on George C. Scott's series, East Side/West Side three years ago.

Miss Tyson has no ambitions to take voice lessons.

"I'll either make it as an actress or not," she said.

Since East Side/West Side, television roles have been few and far between. Last season, she played an African princess on I Spy and this season she will return as what she calls, "a snappy, bourgeois Negro graduate of Vassar," in another episode.

If her performance clicks with the public, she may become Bill Cosby's steady love interest on the series.

Miss Tyson, although hopeful, isn't widely optimistic.

"I try hard not to be bitter, but I've reached a critical point in my career. When I was off-Broadway, I could always take a job as a secretary to fill in the slack period. Now that my name has some marquee value, I'd be ruined if I did that."

It's her opinion that the Civil Rights movement has had little effect on getting young Negro actors work. It's still the Lena Hornes who get the big salary acting assignments.

She is also annoyed when someone brings up Sidney Poitier, the Oscar winning actor, who doesn't sing or dance.

"He's a man," says Miss Tyson with a wink. "And as we all know, men have always had it easier to do the impossible."

One of those men who accomplished the "impossible" is Sammy Davis Jr., who gave her a featured role in his new film, "A Man Called Adam."

Another is Bill Cosby.

The soap opera is produced live in Rockefeller Center, New York, Monday through Friday.

Durable Hooper — I say Fred Astaire is 70 plus. Do I win my bet?—B. McAdams, Pekin, Ill.

Sorry, you lose. The dancer was born May 10, 1899 in Omaha, Neb. His given name is Frederick Austerlitz.

Busy Background—What kind of acting background does Diana Rigg, Mrs. Peel of The Avengers, have?—George Collins, Pompano Beach, Fla.

A considerable one. The English actress has been a member of the Royal Shakespeare Company for a number of years. When the ensemble visited New York she played Cordelia in "King Lear."

By A Nose — Did Christopher Plummer of the film, "The Sound of Music," ever appear on television as Cyrano de Bergerac?—Gail Pfifer, Champaign, Ill.

Yes. He played the role in the Hallmark Hall of Fame production in 1963. Hope Lange was his Roxanne.

Bat Quiz — Why aren't Adam West and Burt Ward on any quiz shows? — Steve Veech, Evansville, Ind.

They are too busy as Batman and Robin figuring out the puzzles of The Riddler.

Jungle Fan—How much money have the Tarzan books and movies made? — Where may I get a Tarzan book?—D.L.M., St. Paul Park, Minn.

We'd hate to speculate on how much has been profited by the Edgar Rice Burroughs jungle stories. But it must be in the millions. Tarzan should also clean up with the new NBC-TV series, starring Ron Ely, set for this fall. The Tarzan books have been re-issued and should be available at your bookstore.

"You an' I are sort of in the same racket, Mr. TV — only you're getting paid for it!"

TV Scout Reports

One well-known actor from television, movies and Broadway, accepted a role in a television series for one reason only: he has a friend, also a big name, who hasn't worked too much lately. The big star took the part with the proviso that the producers would guest star his friend in another episode. They did.

In case you have been wondering what has become of Huntz Hall, a former Dead End Kid, he is now living in Miami. And he has been cast in a two-part episode of Flipper, set for next season.

I Spy has a show called "Vendetta." There was a very funny name change in the script, as follows: "Tweedledum becomes Franco and Tweedledee becomes Giuliano."

People keep asking Milburn Stone, who plays Doc on Gunsmoke—and has for 12 seasons—if he isn't afraid of losing his identity. His answer: "Before Gunsmoke, I had no identity."

There will be a couple of strange looking women on TV next season. One will be Boris Karloff, lured out of semi-retirement to play a villainess in The Man From U.N.C.L.E.

There are no gimmicks in the show, the character doesn't turn out to be a man in disguise. The character is a woman and Karloff plays it completely straight.

And an episode of Laredo calls for Neville Brand to dress in woman's clothes.

Bill Smith of Laredo, once played the brother of Tommy Sands in an episode of Wagon Train. Sands' role was that of a deaf mute.

"It seemed like a good part for Tommy, but it turns out in television that if you don't speak, you don't get photographed much. Anyway, one day we were sent to a sound stage to loop some dialogue (a process where actors mouth the words they have spoken on camera. It's done mostly on outdoor scenes, where conditions prevent good recording. And Tommy started over with us, through habit, before he realized he had no dialogue to loop."

Description of Don Adams, now that he has become a big television star, from someone who works with him: "He doesn't know he's a star. He just knows he is tired."

TV Scout has found a bright young talent that scouts should investigate. He's Eric Jensen, a personable singer-guitarist with a voice similar to Wayne Newton's, who is presently entertaining at California's Hotel del Coronado. He's 24, married and a former talent winner in a nationwide contest held in 1961 and sponsored by a soft drink company. He and his sister won, but she is married and retired.

How does he feel about singing for his supper? "It's the nicest possible way I can earn a living."

An actress who has starred in two series, one very successful and still in reruns, the other less successful, has been very careless with her money. She recently had to borrow $200 from her agent for food.

Robert Goulet, who will be seen in Brigadoon next season, is talking about only one thing these days — and it not the special. He has stopped smoking and is proud of the fact that he has gone over a month without a cigarette.

Speaking of going without, Roger Miller is a go-withouter. He goes without any sleep for three straight days time after time. Which is why he is inclined to fall asleep during interviews.

When The Andy Griffith Show returns next season with new episodes, fans will see a new Andy. He has lost 30 pounds.

Jean Arthur, who has a reputation for being difficult, is not, according to one press agent who works on her new CBS-TV series. The press agent wrote a story about Miss Arthur which was submitted for her approval. The "difficult" star made only one change, she asked that her cat, referred to as "aged" be called "elderly" instead.

Gilligan's Island has filmed a musical for next season, with Phil Silvers as the guest star. Ida Lupino was directing the episode, until an illness — not serious — forced her out.

Rich Little, of Love on a Rooftop came into prominence in his native Canada when he appeared in a show with Judy Garland. "There's nothing like starting at the top and working down," he says.

Little comes from a non-theatrical family. "My father is a doctor and my mother is a mother."

Lana Wood, who play Sandy Webber on Peyton Place, had a Great Dane puppy who was too big for her apartment house. So she bought a house for the dog and moved in with him. "But there was a prowler one night and I was so nervous after that I would stay awake half the night listening."

So she gave the dog to friends and moved back to an apartment, this time with two cats for companions. One of them is named Fred "because it's such a nice name for a cat."

Gary Haynes, who plays blind Chris Webber on Peyton Place, went to the Braille Institute to gather material for his characterization. "I learned the blind can determine location by the feel of the sun on their face, and by traffic noises, and I try to incorporate these things into my performance."

Marlo Thomas: 'That Girl' Seeks Love, Laurels in the Theater

By EDGAR PENTON

Hollywood

Who is "That Girl"?
Marlo Thomas.

Talented and vivacious Marlo not only stars in the bright, new comedy series on ABC-TV, but she also is the raison d'être for the show.

"Our gimmick in 'That Girl' is Marlo. We think she is about as exciting as you can get," stated Bill Persky.

Persky and Sam Denoff, Emmy Award-winning writers of The Dick Van Dyke show, head the exceptionally strong creative team that includes producer Jerry Davis, formerly of Bewitched, as executive producers and creators of the series.

AS "THAT GIRL," Marlo plays the title role of Ann Marie, a high-spirited young girl who goes to New York to work and establish her independence. Although she happens to be an aspiring actress, she will hold a variety of jobs, from waitress to department store clerk, to support herself between theater and summer stock roles.

"The series is the story of a young girl's life, her friends, her romance, her work, the problems she takes home to discuss with her parents, who live in Brewster, upper New York State," said Marlo. "Ann Marie isn't 'hip' or ultra-sophisticated because she is just starting out to make her own way."

"In many respects," she added thoughtfully, "Ann Marie mirrors aspects of every girl or young man going out to make it in the world."

She noted, too, young marrieds, and even more mature women who have raised their families, are seeking creative outlets by taking part-time jobs, enrolling for special courses and so forth to enrich their lives.

"So our series is about what is happening now," she smiled.

CARRYING OUT this theme, Marlo's fresh, youthful wardrobe for the series is being created by Werle, designer for such stars as Loretta Young, in his first go at "now" fashions for the young set.

Appropriately, Marlo is the star who is happening now.

She emerged as such last year, when she filmed the pilot for the ABC-TV series, and went to London to star in Mike Nichols' production of "Barefoot in the Park."

The sometimes aloof London critics were unanimous in their raves.

"A shapely and sinewy doll by the name of Marlo Thomas

PORTRAIT OF MARLO THOMAS, DANNY THOMAS' daughter, and star in her own right of "THAT GIRL", gives only a hint of her vivacious quality. The new ABC show for the fall season will air Thursdays, 9:30-10 p. m.

MARLO THOMAS, dreams of seeing her name in lights—and that's the theme of "THAT GIRL", the ABC COLOR comedy series for fall, Thursdays 9:30-10 p. m. Eastern Time.

scorches the stage with a performance that leaves you breathless," read the Daily Sketch. "A great new comedy star hit London last night. Hit it? She almost demolished it," chimed the Daily Mirror.

Another critic summed up the reason Marlo had chosen to go abroad—to make it on her own—when he wrote, "She's the daughter of an American comedian, I'm told." This one Marlo sent home to her father, Danny Thomas, who showed it with pride to his Hollywood friends.

Marlo's parents flew to London to attend one of her performances.

Also attending one of Marlo's London performances was Thomas W. Moore, president of the ABC television network.

"That was a highlight of the engagement. Mr. Moore came backstage to tell me 'That Girl' had been given the time slot following Bewitched, Thursdays, from 9:30 to 10. There couldn't be any better news for a new series than to follow that hit show."

"In the coming season, The Tammy Grimes Show will air from 8:30 to 9, preceding Bewitched, so it should be 90 minutes of fun," Marlo commented.

MATURE AND meticulously professional at 25, Marlo not only reflects deep pride in "That Girl's" creative staff, but also is generous in her praise of other members of the series cast.

"Ted Bessell costars as my boy friend—or rather Ann Marie's boy friend—Don Hollinger, a magazine writer. Remember how marvelous he was in 'It's a Man's World'?"

"We have great rapport when we do scenes together. Perhaps the fact that both of us studied with Sandy Meisner, although at different times, has something to do with our playing so well together," she said.

Ann Marie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Marie, are played by Rosemary De Camp and Lew Parker. Her friends, Judy and Leon Bessemer, an obstetrician, who live next door in her New York apartment building are portrayed by Bonnie Scott Hutchins and Dabney Coleman, and her agent, George Lester, is played by George Carlin.

All the players are impressed with the unique way in which each "That Girl" segment takes shape.

"We read and rehearse for two days, concluding with a complete run-through in sequence," explained Marlo, adding, "Bill, Sam and Jerry (Persky, Denoff and Davis) come to the set and we do it like a play for them. As far as I know, we're the only series doing this now. It's something that Bill and Sam brought with them from the Dick Van Dyke Show, and you know how successful that was!"

WELL-BRED ("my father raised me to be the wife of a governor, not an actress," she has been quoted as saying), Marlo received her Bachelor of Arts degree in education at the University of California before turning her full attention to the pursuit of an acting career.

The fact that Marlo has striven to disassociate herself—career-wise only—from her famous father is attributable to her moral upbringing as well as her natural independence.

"I believe that every individual must earn a personal sense of achievement. I was born blessed with many advantages that I can't take credit for."

"I'VE BEEN DADDY'S girl since the day I was born. If he did the series for me, I couldn't or wouldn't have any right to feel that I had achieved. I'm in this for the sense of achieving something worth-while."

"If it weren't for my conviction that I have to prove to myself that I can do it on my own, I'd love to have Danny Thomas on the series. He's the best there is and any girl interested in comedy would have to be out of her mind not to try to get him," said Marlo proudly.

Laughing, she added, "I used to tease him that a Lebanese father was louder than most and say, 'Everything you tell me is as if you chiseled each word in granite,' but what he taught me is invaluable now. For instance, never to be jealous or worry about someone you're playing with being great or getting a bigger laugh. He'd say, 'if you play with a Sir Laurence Olivier, you're going to be better yourself. That's the chemistry of it.'"

"This is one reason that I feel so very fortunate working with such a sensitive creative team as Persky and Denoff. They can't even remember which one wrote a line that is considered great. There's no sense of rivalry between them."

The executive producers don't remember which one came up with the series title.

"When a person is unique and does wild and wonderful things, that individual is referred to as 'that boy' or 'that girl.' In discussions about the series, the title grew out of that feeling," Denoff commented.

In terms of being unique, Marlo Thomas is "That Girl."

Joey Bishop Says Late Night Video Has Stale Format

By MICHAEL SHORT For BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Joey Bishop sat down, a soft drink in his hand and a Boy Scout uniform on his back, and like a scoutmaster patiently lecturing a patrol leader who doesn't quite know what the situation is, talked about what is wrong with late-night television.

"Television had like a golden opportunity," he said. "But showing movies became an easy way to fill air time. The format became stale. Now there's not even a host."

Movies Declining
Movies late in the evening don't make as much money as they used to, he said, so networks are turning more attention to live programs.

Bishop was taking a break on the set of "Who's Minding the Mint?" a Columbia movie he expects to finish this month. The uniform, which can give him a more forlorn look than he usually wears on stage, is one costume he wears in the comedy about a robbery.

When Bishop finishes the movie and some night club commitments, he'll begin preparing to become the host of an 11:30 to 1 o'clock talk and variety show on ABC five nights a week. It will be taped in Hollywood for showing at 11:30 p.m., the same time it will be shown in New York.

Credits Jack Parr

Bishop will be no stranger to late talk shows. He credits his appearances on Jack Paar's programs with getting him on the road to his present prosperity. Paar often entrusted the show to Bishop when he was out of town.

Late-night movies have robbed television of the chance for experimentation and creativity that live programming permits, Bishop said. He is not committed to specific persons or formats for his own show and has only a general idea of what he'll try to do.

Bishop's show is unnamed, unstaffed and largely unplanned at this point. And he's not telling what he will do to counter the talk shows of the other networks.

TV Questions & Answers

Soapy Windups

In the last episodes of the NBC-TV soap operas, Morning Star and Paradise Bay, which recently went off the air, please tell me if Eric came back and married Jan? Did Duke and Rosita get her parents permission to marry?—Mrs. Charles Landi, Kingston, N. Y.

Jan, on Morning Star, went off alone to have her baby. Duke and Rosita on Paradise Bay got the family's blessings. The shows were replaced by new quiz programs, Chain Letter and Showdown, in mid July.

Available West

Will Robert Conrad be back next season? Is the actor married?—Maria Mills, Chesapeake, Va.

He will return for his second season as James West on CBS-TV's The Wild Wild West. Conrad is married and the father of three.

Bachelor Boy

Is it true that John Davidson is married and has three children?—R.C., Wichita, Kans.
No. The singer is single.

Sleepy Viewer

Please tell me it's only temporary that The Big Valley will stay on the air so late. It's my favorite show and I'm heartsick it changed times.—N.A., San Antonio, Tex.

Big Valley will remain on ABC-TV at 10 p. m., Mondays. The western moved from an early hour on Wednesday to make room this summer for a network movie series. In September, the Wednesday spot will be occupied by a new mystery series, The Man Who Never Was, and the second edition of Peyton Place.

Missing Doctors

I can't understand why NBC-TV's daytime soap opera, The Doctors' "kills off" main and interesting actors like Adam Kennedy and Ann Williams?—G. Hesse, St. Paul, Minn.

Kennedy, who played Brock, and Miss Williams, who played Maggie, on the series left at their own request: he to concentrate on a career in films she to raise a family. While Brock's character "died," Bethel Leslie took over the role of Maggie last fall.

Don't Peg Him As a Hayseed

By BILL BYERS

NEW YORK — Don't try to peg Eddy Arnold as a hayseed. You may get a black eye.

This reporter came close to one the other day when he mildly questioned the big Tennessee troubador on why he thought he could host The Tonight Show, which he did recently, filling in for the vacationing Johnny Carson.

"What's the matter, boy? Don't you think I read and write and wear shoes?" asked Eddy, with eyebrows and fist raised.

It was a ridiculous moment. This reporter gave Arnold his It was - just - a - joke - really - honest - to - gosh smile and all, he thinks, was forgiven.

As the world knows, Eddy's records have sold more than 40 million copies; this spring he gave a concert at Carnegie Hall, and in recent years he made guest appearances with the Dallas and Phoenix symphony orchestras.

three-inch book on Robert E. Lee), write (one of his bigger hits, "You Don't Know Me," was co-authored by Cindy Walker) and wear shoes — Eddy favors the expensive alligator kind.

When tempers had cooled (Eddy was now sipping a soft drink), the singer, who lives on a 100-acre "gentleman's farm" outside of Nashville, said his fans have never been the hayseed or hillbilly kind.

"They are the purists of country-western music and they have never dug me. I've always appealed to the more pop, sophisticated audience," he said.

The secret of his success, he added, was to always sing a simple melody, with sincerity.

Since he zoomed to stardom with "Bouquet of Roses" in 1948 he has changed his style very little.

"I've just added a few violins to the background," said Eddy.

He has also added a few inches to his waistline and a variety of non-country western performers as friends, like Dean Martin, Danny Thomas, Andy Williams and Danny Kaye. All have booked him on their shows and plan to do so again this season.

Eddy, who feels there is a need and an audience for a TV show of his own, doesn't see the day when he will have one.

"Dadburn, it's just too much work," he said. "The only guy who gets away with it is Dean Martin — he works only one day a week."

A conscientious performer, Eddy had flown in a day early for The Tonight Show just to visit with his guests—Broadway performers Ginger Rogers of "Hello, Dolly," and Herschel Bernardi of "Fiddler on the Roof."

"Someday," said Eddy, with a sigh. "I, too, would like to do a Broadway show."

"Our TV is, too, an original Chippendale cabinet! Although I'll admit it does look a lot like an old chair!"

BURT REYNOLDS AND WAYNE GRICE

Hawk: An Indian With Gags

NEW YORK — Burt Reynolds, star of Hawk, the only dramatic nighttime television series being produced in Manhattan for next season, examined the football padding in his underwear.

The actor, a husky brunet, was happy that all had gone well in a "gag" he had just finished for a fight scene in the East Harlem studios. Now, he could relax with a bottle of beer and a rare steak in his dressing room, which has a huge poster of W. C. Fields on one wall.

"A gag isn't a joke," he explained, slicing into the steak. "It's a stunt and I plan to do most of my own for Hawk."

Before starting on the ABC-TV series this summer, Reynolds had killed "36 white men, individually" for a film, "Dollar a Head," a western he had made in Italy. In it, as in Hawk, he played an Indian.

"The Italians went wild over some of the gags I pulled," he said. "In one scene, instead of knocking a man off a horse with the butt of a rifle, I knock the horse down."

He added that the gags in Hawk won't be so violent, although in the six episodes already filmed by Screen Gems he has been involved in a "killing" in Times Square, had a wild chase in a mangled automobile junkyard and "rode a 35-foot tree to the ground."

Hawk, except for a few interiors, is being filmed on location and at night. Reynolds plays a detective of the District Attorney's night squad. Wayne Grice, a young Negro actor, plays his sidekick.

"I only hope I can make Hawk interesting," said the actor. "As I see him, he is an idealistic, bad-tempered chap who doesn't have time for dishonesty."

Reynolds added he was trying hard to play down the "Indian bit."

"Every time they write in a scene in which I spout like an Indian, I cut it out. Okay, he's an Indian. But why make a big deal out of it?"

The former Florida State College star football player figures, and rightly so, he is being typecast as an Indian. Previously, he was a regular on Gansmoke as Quint Asper, "a friendly Injun," he says, "who mainly held the horses for somebody else."

"I came to New York with the idea of going straight. But then I was intrigued by the wild gags I could do in the Italian flick and then Hawk came up," said Reynolds, who admits there is only a "small drop of Indian blood" in his Italian - French - English heritage.

"Of course I realize there's a lot more to acting than throwing a guy through a window. But when you've pulled off a good gag, that's satisfaction," he said sipping his beer.

Double Duty

In the new fall series, The Girl From U.N.C.L.E., will there be a part for Mr. Waverly?—G.F., Salisbury, N. C.

Yes, Leo G. Carroll, Waverly of The Man From U.N.C.L.E., will appear on both shows. Stephanie Powers is the girl, and her co-star is Noel Harrison. Also watch for Robert Vaughn and David McCallum who will appear infrequently on the new series in their roles of Solo and Illya, which they will still handle on the original U.N.C.L.E.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "When you see something you want, you should go after it with all your energies. Those who wait for things to come to them usually have to be satisfied with left-overs."

Evidence of Advice

This bit of Irish sagacity comes from Richard Harris, who is living evidence of what he preaches. Sure now, would that broth of a lad Richard be playing the king of England if he had waited for the role to fall in his lap?

Probably not, although Harris is one of the more accomplished actors of Anglo-American show business. Within weeks he will be starting his enactment of King Arthur in the — apparently — last collaboration of Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, "Camelot."

The pageant is being produced by none other than Jack L. Warner, who left his usually august position as Warner Brothers headman to produce the last Lerner-Loewe adaptation, "My Fair Lady."

"They really didn't want me," said Irish Richard Harris. "They wanted lots of other chaps, but I earnestly desired the role and I insisted that they test me."

Convinces Warner

"I don't believe in all this cant of the big stars who insist that they won't test for a role. I had never played anything remotely resembling King Arthur before. So how could Jack Warner know that I could handle the role? He didn't, and I was willing to test at my own expense in order to convince him."

Fortunately, Harris was spared that indignity. He tested at the expense of Warner Brothers, exhibiting a lusty baritone that had never been heard professionally. "But I sang while I was drunk," Harris explained, "so I had plenty of practice."

His voice and regal bearing convinced the sage of Burbank, and Harris was cast as Arthur, along with Vanessa Redgrave as Guinevere and Italian Franco Nero as Lancelot. J.L. apparently is convinced the play's the thing and he doesn't need the box-office insurance of an Audrey Hepburn, who cost him a cool million for "My Fair Lady."

Sweet Remains Of Sugarfoot

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — It hasn't exactly been the sweet life for Sugarfoot. But Will Hutchins has not lost his enthusiasm.

After playing the title role in the Sugarfoot western series for three years, Will discovered it can be a cruel world. When the show faded from home screens, his Warner Bros. contract ended shortly thereafter and his parting from the studio left him with a bitter memory.

"They sent me to the Philippine Islands for the movie 'Merrill's Marauders,'" he recalled. "I was killed off after the fourth reel. I didn't mind so much—it was a nice death scene—but immediately after I was killed off, the studio took me off salary."

"I got so mad about it I never went back to the studio. I just disappeared, got lost. I spent a month in Hong Kong and then I went to Japan. I didn't let anyone know where I was and I didn't return to Hollywood until I knew the contract had expired."

Sugarfoot had typed him for westerns. But westerns (there were 30 western series on TV at the time) suddenly were out and so was Will.

Now, after three years, the

talents he brought to the role of Sugarfoot are returning to home screens in a new NBC-TV series—Hey, Landlord. He plays a young bachelor from the mid-west who inherits a brownstone apartment house in New York and becomes involved with a variety of tenants.

The writers are Garry Marshall and Jerry Belson, who wrote many of the Dick Van Dyke shows, and the executive consultant on the series is Sheldon Leonard, one of the most consistently successful producers in the TV industry.

Will's absence from TV since Sugarfoot doesn't mean he hasn't been trying or that TV producers lost interest in him. For three years while touring the U. S. in "Never Too Late" and "Mr. Roberts," Will returned to Hollywood each year long enough to star in a new series idea.

"I made three pilots," he says, "but not one of them sold. I'm glad now that they didn't. I think Hey, Landlord has a good chance of becoming a hit because of Marshall and Belson, who are pure geniuses as writers."

While making the pilot reel for the show Will passed out cigars labeled, "It's A Girl." He and his wife Chris, sister of Carol Burnett, named their daughter Jennifer.

"I think," says Will, "that Jennifer brought me luck."

Tammy Grimes Readies Series

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD — Tammy Grimes talks with her face and her hands.

She's something like watching a silent movie to which a modern sound track has been added. The pantomime is that fascinating!

Tammy answers questions but what she says is overshadowed by the accompanying gestures and the tone of the voice.

The voice is deep with an accent that is part British, part Bostonian, part mid-western and part Tammy. There's a broad facial gesture for every word she speaks and between words her hands are everywhere—now zooming skyward above her head, now traveling across her face, now under her chin, now outstretched, now behind her head, now fluttering like the wings of a bird.

A Broadway hit in "The Un-

sinkable Molly Brown" zoomed mercurial, unpredictable and unmistakable Tammy into a host of TV specials and this fall she becomes a TV regular. She will star in her own weekly series, The Tammy Grimes Show, on ABC-TV.

Breathless and hair flying, she came to lunch from a rehearsal stage one day.

"I love to rehearse," she explained, "but in television you are a little rushed I hate that moment after a scene when the director says, 'Print it.' I'd rather go on rehearsing. Sometimes I wonder about myself. I'd rather rehearse than get on with it."

On the way to lunch her coproducer and script supervisor, Alex Gottlieb, had testified to what happens when Tammy rehearses and then plays a scene.

"The scene is there, written down in black and white. But with Tammy it always come out different. She has her own way of doing everything — and it's funny."

Tammy's face reflects distress when she hears the words "broad comedy" which everyone says the show features "I don't know," she mutters, "but when women do comedy there's something about them that becomes freakish, clownish. They forget they are women. I don't like that. I want to remain a woman."

She's delighted about the series. "My ambition," she says, "was to go to New York and do what I did. But now TV is fine. I'm the girl, you know, who turned down Bewitched."

Just before starting the series she completed a role in a movie, "Three Bites of the Apple" with David McCallum. Obviously not too happy with the film, she said, "It turned out to be sort of a large cameo for me — maybe a very small cameo after being edited."

Now married to actor Jeremy Slate (they met during filming of the pilot for the series), Tammy has a nine-year-old daughter, Amanda, by a previous marriage to actor Christopher Plummer.

Maybe Amanda will become an actress, too.

"There's a hint of it," Tammy laughs. "The other day her cousin asked her, 'Would you like to be a movie star?' and Amanda replied, 'No all I want to be is a very fine actress.'"

DINNER OUT at a Rome restaurant was a family affair for Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton. At the table are the actress; Liza, her daughter by showman Mike Todd; Burton; Maria, Miss Taylor's adopted daughter, and Michael and Christopher, her sons by actor Michael Wilding. The Burtons are in Rome filming "The Taming of the Shrew."

Wacky Future

I know Gary Collins of The Wackiest Ship in the Army will be in ABC-TV's Iron Horse. But what about his Wacky co-stars — Mike Kellin and Mark Slade? — Anne Chandler, St. Paul, Minn.

So far, the boys haven't lined up any series of their own. But you can expect them to make guest appearances from time to time.

Aqaba, in Jordan, will have wide, palm-fringed boulevards and a new town of 40,000 next to the old mud-brick village of 6,000 inhabitants.

Title Fight On Channel 5

World Light Heavyweight Champion Jose Torres' title defense against second-ranked contender Eddie Cotton will be carried live from Las Vegas on WNEW-TV (Channel 5), Monday, Aug. 15, starting at 10 p. m.

Sportscaster Tommy Roberts will handle the blow-by-blow commentary of the 15-round bout at the Las Vegas Convention Center.

This fight will mark the second title defense for the 33-year-old champion from Puerto Rico since he took the crown from Willie Pastrano in March, 1965. He made his first defense last May with a 15-round decision over Wayne Thornton, bringing his record to 36 victories, 1 loss and 1 draw.

Challenger Cotton is one of the more experienced fighters in the ring today. Forty years old, he has won 54 of 76 fights, 30 of them by knock-outs.

"Which repeat do you want to watch? The one you've seen four times or the one you've seen three?"

CHANNEL CHATTER

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The ingredients artfully compounded, in a new NBC situation comedy called "Hey, Landlord" could make a chapter in any textbook on television writing.

The basic recipe: one part attractive, boyish, naive and idealistic hero mixed well with one part sharp, sophisticated, wisecracking sidekick; place in a container large enough to hold other assorted ingredients, to be added and subtracted at the whim of the script writer.

'Sugarfoot' Back

"Hey, Landlord" has Will Hutchins, a tall, good-looking country-boy type who several seasons back made a hit of a jerry-built western series called "Sugarfoot." Older feminine viewers wanted to mother him, younger feminine viewers thought he was cute and the male audience liked the action.

For contrast they added a young nightclub comedian named Sandy Baron, prototype of what people who cook up television comedy series believe is a typical hip New Yorker.

This sort of co-star casting probably has its roots in the ancient Greek theatre, a sweet-and-sour device to avoid the saccharine. "My Friend Irma," far back in TV history, had her sharp-tongued roommate; dear, dedicated Dr. Kildare had his grouchy Dr. Gillespie; Eve Arden and Joan Blondell built careers playing the funny waspish friend of the heroine, and every straight-shooting, right-thinking cowboy has his Pat Brady or Gabby Hayes.

Hutchins and Baron have been placed in a New York brownstone, inherited by the former who rents rooms. This permits the writers to introduce assorted characters. They can move in for a week or two, go through their paces and quietly or boisterously depart.

Switch in Action

This is a switch on the device for action shows like "The Fugitive," "Run for Your Life" or "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea." In these, the regulars move to different locales and new plots and protagonists for each show.

"Hey, Landlord," however, has a lot more going for it. In the background are many of the clever TV practitioners responsible for the late "Dick Van Dyke Show."

Its producers, also writing scripts, are two former Van Dyke writers. Jerry Paris, who directed so many Van Dyke episodes while playing the Petrie's neighbor, is the director. Sheldon Leonard, a producer whose

Los Angeles Tops

Los Angeles is the nation's top old-movie city for TV audiences, a recent survey disclosed. In one typical week, 263 old movies were shown on TV there. During the same week, New York had only 163 old movies. Only?

Ever make sandwiches of tuna salad plus thinly sliced ham? Interesting combination!

track record in TV is unsurpassed, is executive consultant, whatever that means.

Baron, a Brooklyn boy in his 20s, has been hitting his stride in the past four years, moving from the usual monologues of the stand-up comedian to improvisation as a member of the off-Broadway companies of "Second City" and "The Premise." Then he graduated to wise-guy roles in some Broadway shows, most recently Henry Fonda's "Generation."

Hutchins, in contrast to brash Baron, is a quiet fellow with a shy understated humor.

Bob Hope's first comedy special of the season, in late September, will include his leading ladies over the movie years, excepting a couple who are out of reach in Europe, Paulette Goddard and Madeleine Carroll. That leaves of course, Dorothy Lamour and Lucille Ball, among others.
